Land On Palau . . . Second Explosion Within 6 Months

And Morotai

. . . Nimitz-MacArthur Lead Twin Invasions

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Sept. 15—(AP)—American assault forces converging on the Philippines from the south and east landed on the fortress-like Palau islands and Morotai today (Manila time) on the heels of the most crushing aerial bombardment the island archipelago ever received.

Marines and army assault forces from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' central Pacific command landed on unnamed islands of the Palau group, 600 miles east of Mindanao island in the Philippines, while Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops made a surprise landing on Morotai, 300 miles south of Mindanao.

(Tokyo radio said the Palau landing was on Peleliu island, southermost of the group within the great barrier reef and the most accessible to small landing craft. The broadcast claimed the "enemy was repulsed" after 2,500 Americans were killed in the first two and a half hours of fighting.)

Co-ordinated Squeeze.

Both commanders, now operating their forces as a co-ordinated team squeezing Japan's prize conquest of the Pacific war, announced the invasion a few hours after they were accomplished, indicating initial success and confidence in the outcome.

Japan's ability to send immediate aid to the invaded islands was knocked out by the crushing aerial battle of the Philippines which in four days of U. S. carrier plane attacks wiped out 501 Nipponese planes and 173 surface craft.

Seaborne aircraft had scarcely returned to their flattops when Admiral William F. Halsey's bristling Third fleet opened up a terrific barrage on Palau with everything in the book including rockets and the big guns of America's newest and most heavily armed battleships.

Stiff Opposition.

"Enemy defenses are being heavily bombed and shelled at close range," Admiral Nimitz announced nine hours after assault forces splashed ashore against the strongly defended, reef-encircled islands.

"Landings are continuing against stiff ground opposition," he said, indicating that beachheads had been hacked out on one of the most powerful outposts of the Japanese empire.

His original announcement gave no further details of the amphibious operations, directed by Vice Admiral T. S. Wilkinson, commander of the Third amphibious force. Landing forces were

Churchill To Extend His Visit

Quick Pace Of War May Keep Prime Minister In Contact With F. D. R.

QUEBEC, Sept. 15—(AP)—The second Quebec conference will close tomorrow, but the quick pace of the war in Europe may hold President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in personal contact for further conversations.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, made known that the discussions in the Citadel were in their "closing phases" and added: "You may say that the president and Mr. Churchill will definitely conclude tomorrow their conference in Quebec."

"Does your use of 'Quebec' mean they may talk elsewhere?" Early was asked.

"Can't Answer."

"I can't answer," he replied.

Even after tomorrow's official windup, Early said, military staffs will continue their meetings in the Chateau Frontenac.

While Early and Robin Cruikshank of the British information ministry were holding their last press conference, Roosevelt and Churchill were talking with Anthony Eden, British foreign minister, who arrived last night. Another of the British staff at their call was Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary for foreign affairs.

Whether U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull would follow Eden to Quebec was uncertain. Hull told Washington reporters he had no plans to come here.

Last Day of Conferences.

Eden's arrival, although it obviously means a broadening of the conference agenda, is not expected to run the meeting past the week-end. Today apparently will be the last full day of the conference.

In a packed brief case Eden is reported to have included fresh proposals on the European advisory commission's recommendations for military occupation of Germany by Anglo-American-Soviet troops.

The Soviet-Polish clash provides another likely pocket but it is rated second to a hard-boiled handling of naziland.

Democracy To Face New Demands After Peace--Rev. Becker

Declaring that "democracy should be cared for, treated and disciplined as a created thing," Rev. Paul Becker, pastor of Bethany Christian church who addressed members of the Kiwanis club Friday noon, at the chamber of commerce, pointed out that most people, if asked on the street what a democracy is, would answer, "the rule of the majority." But something must be done about the minority, Rev. Becker said, because they must be looked after in "a protective sense."

"Democracy will be faced with new demands during the post war period," the pastor added, mentioning that there are two kinds of barbarians. "There are the active barbarians, like the nazis, who get what they want. Then there are the passive barbarians who have what they want and intend to keep it selfishly."

—COMMITTEE OF 59—

Minority Register Protests

. . . and charge action taken "unduly hasty"

Opposed to acquiring the Lincoln electrical distribution lines now owned by the Consumers Public Power district, through condemnation action, minority members of Mayor Marti's Committee of 59 have filed with the city clerk a "minority report." It was signed by eight business and professional men who fought the condemnation recommendation of the majority report. They are J. Lloyd McMaster, Clarence G. Miles, former city attorney; E. M. Forsyth, E. H. Schroder, John F. Lawlor, H. L. Schwenker, and Morris N. Adams.

Sufficient Notice.

Besides opposing condemnation, the minority report sets out that the Committee of 59 was called without giving "sufficient opportunity" to the "large majority of members present." It was the belief of the minority that had sufficient notice been given "probable attendance of 90 per cent," would have been counted.

It also is the opinion of the signers of the report that the procedure of the city is "unduly hasty," and "too little time is being allowed for the presentation of the question of condemnation to the voters of the city."

Exception also is taken to the majority rejecting the requests of R. E. Campbell, former mayor, and C. Petrus Peterson, for many years city attorney, that they be given an opportunity to be heard. Business had called them to New York City, and Washington, D. C.

Eliminate Doubt.

"When this matter goes to the voters there should be no doubt in the minds of the people that an opportunity has been given to

SQUEEZE ON JAPAN TIGHTENS—Marines and army assault forces from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' command have landed on the strongly defended Palau islands, 600 miles east of Mindanao island in the Philippines, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops have gone ashore on Morotai, 300 miles south of Mindanao.

War Summary

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Friday, September 15, 1944.

JAPAN Friday felt the hot breath on the back of its neck as invasion and ultimate liberation of the Philippine islands moved nearer when American marine and army forces stormed into the Japanese-held island base on the heels of a thrust by MacArthur into Halmahera. Temporarily although magnificent progress was taking place in Europe, in the continuing advance of united nations' armies, Pacific developments claimed attention.

TWO STRONG BASTIONS—Events in the Pacific seemed even more spectacular than the continued tread of allied armies on German soil. In the space of 24 hours, two of the strongest bastions protecting the Japanese homeland islands had been invaded in strength, bringing ever nearer the day when MacArthur can slug it out in the Philippines and retake Bataan. It appeared that the Japs were both surprised and outflanked when General MacArthur sent land forces ashore at Morotai island in the northern reaches of the Halmahera group which is southwest of Palau. He was able to proclaim: "I am now within 300 miles of the Philippines."

STIFF OPPOSITION—Shortly afterward the navy department announced in Washington powerful marine and army groups had stormed ashore at Palau, which is 600 miles due east of the Philippines' Mindanao, the southern-most island of the Philippine group, to march another mile to build up gradually American strength to thwart the supply and communication lines of Japan itself. At Palau, the official announcement said stiff ground opposition was encountered but carrier-borne planes of Admiral Nimitz Pacific fleet and the big guns of his battleships subjected the enemy defenses to a terrific plastering. Japanese broadcasts said the American attack in the Palau islands had been directed against the southwestern coast of Peleliu, which is the southernmost of the islands of the archipelago.

OFF BALANCE—MacArthur centering his air attack on the southern fringes of the Halmahera, again appeared to have fooled the Japs into anticipating a southern landing. He had assigned his airmen to protracted bombing attacks against the southern reaches but in landing, in force, picked one of the islands far to the north which is closest of all to Manila, and which in the light of the air bombardment, had been practically denuded of defense troops. The opposition encountered at Morotai was described officially as light.

* * *

REOPENING SEA ROADS—Both operations obviously are designed to open the sea road to Bataan and Corrigedor. The twin assaults at Halmahera and Palau are the most daring and the most

-Aachen Capture Nears-

Deepen Reich Entry

Yanks Lunge 10 Miles Into Germany North of Ancient City of Trier

LONDON, Sept. 15—(AP)—Powerful United States armies grasped the Germans' kingpin city of Aachen in an encircling ring of steel today and captured Nancy and Maastricht, strongholds at opposite ends of their 180-mile front.

Doughboys drove 10 miles into Germany in a Siegfried line-busting offensive which had pierced the first zone of that fortified system at two places and deeply dented it at a third.

The U. S. First army moved its tanks, infantry and self-propelled guns around Aachen, historic passageway of Europe's conending armies. Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' offensive was proving the nazis' vaunted Siegfried line to be an obsolete collection of easily-cracked concrete pillboxes—at least in this sector.

People Want Peace.

These first few days of assault upon the Siegried line have shown it to be far less formidable than many of the obstacles the allies smashed on the beaches of Normandy.

Battered troops from Normandy, supplemented by physical misfits, men just released from the hospital and soldiers from such outfits as the air force and signal corps are trying to hold the present line.

An American senior staff officer said tonight that all through this area the German people want nothing more than peace and quiet.

Within Yanks' Grasp.

"Aachen is surrounded and within American grasp," said a dispatch from the front. American troops stood on the tops of the Germans' ventilated caves on Aachen's outskirts and forced the enem yto move like moles. They were within 40 miles of the Rhine.

The 10-mile penetration of Adolf Hitler's realm was just above the German city of Trier, east of Luxembourg, where a two-mile advance into the Siegfried line was announced yesterday.

This apparently moved the

21 Said Injured At Naval Depot

. . . Tremors Shook Neighboring Communities

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 15—(AP)—Three negro sailors and one coast guardsman were killed this morning when a large amount of ammunition exploded at the Hastings Naval Ordnance depot, the Hastings Daily Tribune said this afternoon.

The newspaper said it learned on reliable authority that 21 persons—11 civilians, five coast guardsmen, and five sailors—were injured.

The blast which shook communities as far as 125 miles distant, dug a crater 550 feet long and 25 feet deep in the transfer station in the south part of the 48,000-acre depot, largest military installation in Nebraska.

23 Business Houses Damaged.

Although the explosion scene was 22 miles from Hastings at least 23 business houses here suffered damaged, mostly broken plate glass windows.

Explosion Highlights

GLENVIL—Although this small community is only four miles from the Hastings naval depot, damage from the blast Friday morning was limited to broken window panes in stores and homes.

Damage was not as heavy as in the April explosion, Oliver Kissinger, store owner, believes.

Merchandise was knocked from the shelves in the Kissinger store and windows were broken.

INLAND— Practically every window in every building and home in this town, six miles north of the Hastings naval depot, was shattered as a result of the explosion Friday morning.

Many doors were also reported blown out by the blast, but no serious injuries were reported.

Inland schools were dismissed as all the windows in the building were knocked out.

Postmaster Carl Stimbert, also owner of an Inland store, said

Concussion Of Blast Is Felt Locally

. . . Windows Here Rattle

Concussion from the Hastings Naval ammunition depot explosion Friday morning gave notice in Lincoln of the blast before news of the accident reached here. Mrs. Donald Byars, employed in the state railway commission offices, who noted the jar and rattling of the heavy windows in the capitol, called The Star to ask what had happened. Attorney Walter R. Johnson later said he felt the capitol tremble at the time.

Many Phone Calls.

Telephone inquiries flooded the newspaper offices immediately following the blast. Many reported that it was felt here.

One of the employes at D. Eiche's Tire shop said that the big plate glass windows, approximately 10 feet square, shook when the blast occurred.

Office workers in several downtown buildings said that windows rattled and doors that were ajar slammed shut at about the time of the explosion. Some reported that they felt a sharp gust of wind at about that time, though the theory that such a gust could be caused by an explosion so far away has been discounted by the weather bureau.

No Seismograph Record.

An attempt to learn whether any tremor was recorded by the seismograph at Nebraska Wesleyan university failed when it was discovered that the instrument had not been adjusted at the time of the blast.

Capt. C. J. Sanders, of the State Safety Patrol, reported at noon that Sgt. R. C. Beers, who had been ordered to the scene, had advised him that all traffic was being detoured around Hastings, three miles to the north and then east, in order that the highway could be kept open for ambulances and physicians' cars. Sanders said that additional men would be assigned to the Hastings area if necessary.

The blast at the 48,000-acre installation about nine miles southeast of here was the second in six months and the third this year. A blast last April 6 claimed eight lives and on January 7 three seamen were killed in an explosion.

Mayor Ray Carter said he understood that Glenvil, small village on the border of the depot area which was heavily damaged in the April blast, again suffered heavily. Two fires which broke out in Glenvil were brought under control, he said.

An enormous cloud of smoke billowed up from the ordnance plant area about nine miles from Hastings.

Windows all along Hastings' main street were knocked out by the blast.

Telephone Lines Jammed.

Telephone lines to the depot installations were immediately jammed by a flood of calls, most of them from families of depot workers.

The blast occurred at approximately 9:25 a. m. (CWT). The first casualties brought to the dispensary in the depot area were Negro sailors. The number injured and their names were not learned.

The explosion occurred in the south transfer depot 5 to 8 miles east and a little south of the site of last April's explosion and east of Glenvil, small town on the depot area border, which was badly damaged by the last blast.

The blast was felt as far away as Lebanon, Kas., about 95 miles southwest, and reports of windows broken and window sashes torn out of frames came from Red Cloud, Inland, Ayr, Fairfield, and Clay Center in Nebraska.

Merchandise was blown off shelves in Hastings, where an early count showed 23 business houses damaged.

McCook, 125 miles from Hastings, reported the blast was heard there.

Thanksgiving 'Last Thursday' Of Month? No!

Do you know when Thanksgiving comes this year?

Sorry, but that "last Thursday in November" guess is an error.

Thanksgiving day comes on the fourth Thursday. That falls on November 23. The calendar this year show five Thursdays in November.

The question was settled for all time, it is believed, by house of representatives joint resolution 41, on December 26, 1941. It reads:

"Resolved by the senate and the house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, that the fourth Thursday of November of each year after 1941 be known as Thanksgiving Day, and it is hereby made a legal holiday to all intents and purposes."

Yes, the president signed it.

Janet Westover, Club Woman, Is Taken By Death

Mrs. Janet Wheeler Westover, wife of Richard Westover and prominent Lincoln club woman, died at her home, 2734 Rathbone road, early Friday morning.

Born in Plattsmouth on May 4, 1892, she moved to Lincoln with her parents in 1910. She was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1916. While at the university, she was secretary of the junior class and a member of Alpha Phi sorority. She was married to Richard Westover in 1917.

Mrs. Westover continued her interest in Alpha Phi, following graduation, and served the sorority as district governor and treasurer of the housing corporation and also president of the alumnae group.

She was a member of St. Matthew's Episcopal church and was active in the guild-auxiliary. She was also a member of the Kappa Sigma auxiliary, Temple chapter of Eastern Star, and chapter K D of P. E. O.

She is survived by her husband, one son, R. Van, and a sister, Mrs. Ruth Pepple of West Los Angeles, Calif.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Rev. William Paul Barnds officiating. Burial will be in Wyuka cemetery. The casket will not be open at the service. The body will lie in state from 1 to 2 p. m. at the church.

Americans past Trier, one of the strongest centers of the Siegfried line, well on the way to Wittlich, 20 miles to the northwest, and within 5 0miles of Soblenz on the Rhine. Trier is five miles from the Luxembourg border.

Eysden, Dutch border village, fell in the sweep which took the Yankees through Maastricht.

Nancy, a famed French bastion of 121,000 on the banks of the Meruthe in a crook below the Moselle, fell in the southern onslaught of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army at 11 a. m. (4 a. m. CWT).

Maastricht, Netherlands city guarding the Meuse canal where the Germans made their fateful crossing into Belgium in 1940, fell during fierce penetrations of German defenses north of half-encircled Aachen, the German high command announced.

Nancy, 14th city of France and historic scene of French resistance both in ancient times and in the first World war, is 68 miles from the Strasbourg crossing of the Rhine.

bottles and cans were knocked from shelves in his store. He also added that a chimney on one of the homes was blown down.

Some school children were cut by glass, but no serious injuries were known.

HARVARD—Harvard high school was dismissed Friday morning following the Hastings naval depot blast which tore plaster from the ceilings at the school and cracked the chimney on the building, Chief of Police Carl North declared.

In the business district several walls of brick buildings were cracked and many window panes were shattered. Plaster in a number of homes here was also cracked.

EDGAR—Large plate glass windows in the business district were broken here Friday morning as a result of the Hastings naval depot explosion.

Residents could plainly see the cloud of smoke from the blast at the plant, near 25 miles northwest of this community.

A light tremor preceded the heavy blast according to Otto W. Wolf, publisher of the Edgar Sun.

FAIRFIELD—Damage in this area from the Hastings explosion included broken window panes in the business section of Fairfield, Mayor Fred Glass reported.

The blast seemed to rock the town, Glass added. Many of the depot workers reside in this community.

CLAY CENTER— Considerable damage was done here, though no immediate injuries were reported after the blast. Windows on the main street were broken, and the large plate glass windows of the bank were shattered. Goods were knocked from store shelves and pictures on walls of residences swayed.

SUTTON—According to Mayor E. A. Jones, Sutton suffered about the same damage in this latest explosion as it did in the one last spring. Few windows in the business block remained intact, and some second-story windows in residences were broken.

John M. Sullivan, Lincoln Resident For 30 Years, Dies

John M. Sullivan, 83, 2019 T street, resident of Lincoln 30 years, died at a local hospital Friday morning. His wife, Mary, passed away in Lincoln Sept. 2.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. K. M. Donaldson, Lincoln, and Mrs. Nellie Baker, Chicago; and several nieces and nephews.

Rosary will be recited at 7 p. m. Sunday at Robert's chapel. Funeral services will be at 9:30 a. m. Monday at the Sacred Heart church, Rev. H. B. Hart officiating. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

heavily mounted attacks yet made against the inner defenses of Japan. Few details of the preliminary operations were available immediately but both appeared to have been preceeded by furious air and naval bombardment that destroyed defense positions and established a record for the tonnage of explosives and shells utilized in preparatory steps. At Quebec the two offensives brought a statement from President Roosevelt's secretary, Stephen Early, re-emphasizing that the present conference there between the president and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill is concerned chiefly with the defeat of the Japs.

NANCY LIBERATED — There was equally impressive news from the western front in Europe. Late Friday allied supreme headquarters announced that Nancy, the capital of Lorraine, and a key point of German prepared defenses in France to the west of the Siegfried line, has been liberated by French soldiers. The French forces under command of General Koenig inaugurated the attack on Nancy early in the morning of Thursday and at 8:00 Friday the Germans had been driven out. French progress was reported on all other sectors of the west wall battlefront. The city of Charmes, 25 miles to the south of Nancy, was gobbled up, while Polish units pushed into the vicinity of St. Nicholas.

NEARING AACHEN—America nforces had thrust forward to within two miles of the great German communication hub of Aachen and the German radio admitted that several strong points in the Siegfried line had fallen to allied columns operating in overwhelming strength.

STRONGER RESISTANCE—But in the day's communique General Eisenhower reported that the forces which crossed the German frontier east of Eupen in Belgium were meeting stronger resistance including extensive mine fields and obstinent road blocks, which have slowed down progress appreciably. Canadian troops were compelled to withdraw a bridgehead near Mourkeque as a result of the stubborn opposition in the exposed country. East of St. Vith the advance against strongly-fortified positions ran into heavy German artillery and anti-tank fire.

IN ITS SUBURBS—It was clear although allied headquarters for security reasons were reluctant to release details of military operations, that the principal allied offensive centered along the Moselle river and in the suburbs of Aachen, which the Americans had reached. Broadcasts from Berlin clearly indicated the Germans were hard-pressed. To the north Maastricht, the capital of Limburg province of Holland has been liberated by the Yanks, who entered it yesterday, four years, four months and four days after the German invasion. The people gave the Americans a joyous welcome. Later Berlin amplifying its earlier broadcast, conceded that a number of the fortifications in the Aachen area had fallen to General Hodges and his Americans and the fall of the city itself seemed to be a matter of but hours.

FIRE ON SHIPPING—A new turn in the war against Germany developed when the government of Finland announced the Finnish shore batteries had opened fire against German "invasion ships" off the island of Hogland in the gulf of Finland, sinking nine alleged to have been trying to land. Finland's premier, Antti V. Hackzel, is seriously ill in Moscow, a victim of paralysis, where as chairman of Finland's peace mission to Russia, he was undertaking negotiations. Still another island figured in battlefront reports Friday when Yugoslavian partisan units landed and freed Brac, off the Walmatian coast, and at the same time, Marshal Tito filed Yugoslavia's request for a seat at the post-war conference to present the nation's claim for the Italian Istria peninsula which juts into the Adriatic sea.

* * *

TWENTY-SIX ISLANDS—Back to the Pacific there was much work ahead of the American forces landing in the Palaus. That group embraces 26 islands, the largest Dabelthuat, Oruktapi, Koror, Anguar, Pelelieu and Eilmaik. They are heavily fortified and there was the feeling that before completely subdued, the battle there may equal Tarawa and Saipan in fierceness. But the two landings seemed definitely to seal off Truk and al lthe remaining positions held by the Japs in the Marianas and in the Carolines from supplies and reinforcements. It was from the Palaus that the Japs launched powerful spearheads early in the war to invade the East Indies, New Guinea and southern Philippines. Their population of 10,632 in 1934 was about half Japanese. They are 2,000 miles south of Tokyo and a thousand miles southeast of Manila. The entire operation in practical effect was a pincers closing in on the Philippines. The push into the Halmahera group carried the Americans 300 miles to the northwest of the most advanced positions previously held on Dutch New Guinea. The landings by-passed the Netherlands East Indies' islands of Kei, Waigeo and Ceran. It was estimated that in the scattered Pacific islands, a force of 200,000 Japanese soldiers, comprising the Sixth and Nineteenth imperial Japanese armies, had been trapped.

NEW RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE—The German radio said that Stalin had opened up a new offensive against the Germans in the Baltic area, employing 40 divisions. Moscow made no mention of it but in its communique devoted much attention to the bitter battle for Warsaw where Russian forces had massed for the final assault on the burning Polish capital. Frontline reports told of a thunderous artillery duel between the giant Russian field guns and the nazi batteries inside Warsaw. The streets of the capital echoed to shells and the city itself was ablaze with the liberation of its ruins apparently imminent. Eleven villages near Warsaw had been taken and other Russian columns carried new advances in northern Poland from Lomza. In Transylvania 60 more inhabited localities, including four railway stations were captured as the Russians pushed to within 12 miles of Cluj, the capital.

DESPERATE FIGHTING—In northern Italy Marshal Kesselring tossed in more reserves to defend his Gothic line as Canadian troops of the allied Eighth army pushed against the German-held Rimini airfield. North and northwest of Florence, General Clark met heavy resistance as his forces moved up against the main Gothic line position on a wide front.

WINNING TEAM—The talks between Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill were drawing to a close and it was indicated it would end Saturday. They had been joined by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who, reports unconfirmed said, had journeyed to Canada with a message so important that it could not be entrusted to diplomatic cables. Apparently the question of supreme command had been resolved in favor of a winning team combining Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur, who have been doing a good job. That was believed to have been the outcome of the president's visit to Hawaii in linking together the teamwork of the two men, who up to day have had perfect co-ordination. Military men Friday expressed themselves as believing that the present arrangement between MacArthur and Nimitz furnishes an ideal combination. There has been exceellent harmony between the two.

CHINESE JUNCTION—Chinese columns driving in two columns from India and China Friday effected a junction near the Burma border . . . German resistance at the port of Brest seems to have come to an end, the British radio announced . . . a A Japanese news agency reported that an invention by an engineer of one of its aircraft companies will enable the Japs to place in mass production wooden aircraft of the type of the same British Mosquito bomber . . . The entire region in France between the Allier and Loire rivers has been liberated . . . Highly reliable quarters, London said, have reported that the German position in southeastern Europe is crumbling very fast.

duly consider the whole matter," the report says, pointing out that the committee "was not able to arrive at a price which it could recommend" to the council.

The report suggests that an analysis of the factors entering into acquisition of the property should be made by a disinterested engineer, and adds:

"Whether or not Lincoln will be unfair in forcing acquisition of the Consumers' system at this time, we dislike to have it appear that Lincoln is unfair, either in its procedure or its objectives."

Preceding the signatures is this statement: Members of the committee present at the meeting of September 11, 1944 and voting against the resolution.

The minority report follows:

"Believing it to be our duty to advise your Body as to the reasons why we as members of the Committee of 50 are opposed to the above resolution which was passed at the meeting of the Committee held at the City Hall Monday evening, September 11, 1944, we herewith present our reasons for such opposition:

"1. The meeting at which the resolution was passed was called without sufficient opportunity to the large majority of the members of the Committee to be present. According to our tabulations but thirty-four members of the Committee were present and but thirty-one voted on the resolution. The meeting was, of course, the most important one of all the Committee's meetings. Notice coming to the members on Saturday morning was not sufficient to permit several members to plan to be present. Among them were Senator G. Petrus Peterson and Mr. Earl Campbell, mayor of the city at the time the Consumers acquired the Iowa-Nebraska properties. If notice of the meeting had been given a sufficient length of time in advance, we believe that instead of an attendance of 58 per cent of the Committee's members, there would have been a probable attendance of at least 90 per cent.

"2. The Chairman of the Committee presented to the Committee letters from Mr. Earl Campbell and Mr. C. Petrus Peterson, in which letters these gentlemen expressed their desire to present their views before the Committee and Mr. Campbell particularly urged that in no event should condemnation be recommended by the Committee. These members, as well as others, were out of the city. The resolution adopted by the majority is a recommendation to the Council to proceed by condemnation.

"3. It appears obvious to the undersigned that further negotiations with Consumers Public Power District should be carried on. These negotiations should not be hurried and should not appear so to be. In all probability the city should ultimately acquire the Consumers' distribution system. Our disagreement with the majority is with reference to the methods of acquisition which are being advocated in the majority's resolution. In the first place, the procedure by the city appears to the undersigned to be unduly hasty and to have resulted in a very divisive issue among the citizens of Lincoln. It appears that not enough time has elapsed for negotiation. Too little time is being allowed for the presentation of the question of condemnation to the voters of the city. The majority of the Committee apparently hope to have this matter submitted to the people at the November election. What the form of that submission will be no one was able to state. Undoubtedly, the former mayor of this city, Mr. Earl Campbell, who has devoted a lot of time and study to this whole matter, and Mr. C. Petrus Peterson, who in the State Senate of Nebraska has familiarized himself thoroughly with power and irrigation problems in the State of Nebraska, would have been able to contribute a great deal to the Committee's opinion. It may be that consideration should be given this matter in connection with post-war planning. When this matter goes before the voters there should be no doubt in the minds of the people that an opportunity has been given to duly consider the whole matter. The Committee was not able to arrive at a price which it could recommend to your body as fair compensation for the Consumers' distribution system. Perhaps, a disinterested engineer should be selected to further analyze the reports of the engineers for the city and the Consumers. Such an analysis should then be presented to the Council for its consideration.

"Whether or not Lincoln will be unfair in forcing the acquisition of the Consumers' system at this time, we dislike to have it even appear that Lincoln is unfair, either in its procedure or its objectives."

Three-Day Air Assault.

The day before the Palau invasion Halsey's powerful fleet, still unable to bring the reluctant Japanese navy to battle, wound up a crushing three-day aerial assault by its carrier planes on the central Philippine islands of Cebu, Panay, Negros and Leyte.

Admiral Nimitz announced late yesterday the planes "inflicted crippling damage to enemy air forces, shipping and ground installations x x x. Aircraft destroyed: 156 shot down in combat and 277 destroyed on the ground."

At the end of the third day the Japanese air fleet had vanished, in great part destroyed in the worst defeat it ever suffered.

40 Ships Sunk.

Shipping sunk included two large cargo vessels, one medium transport, two destroyer escorts and 35 small ships—total 40. Damaged were five cargo vessels, one medium oiler, 36 small ships, two motor torpedo boats, and many sampans—total 44, and an overall loss of 84 ships.

American air losses were relatively light and surface loss was nil, Nimitz said.

Hometown Girl

Chapter 8.

All the way home from Fortino's Charley was exuberant. Chick Malloy had been more than cordial tonight, seemed really interested in the annuity. Man, oh man, if he could sign him on the dotted line for a sixty or seventy thousand—!" He grinned across Gwen at Susan. "Maybe you're my lucky piece," he said. "Malloy asked who you were."

Before Susan got into bed that night she turned off her lights and looked down the length of moonlit street below with its swiftly moving traffic, its sauntering people. The thought came to her of the thousands of people here living their lives wholly unaware and uninterested in the doings of the Corboys or the Scarbroughs. She smiled. She realized how the thought had subconsciously relaxed her all day. Perspective, that was the thing a city could give you. That was why Merril had plotted to send her here. In the morning she was rested as she had not been in weeks.

The interviews turned out to be swift and painless. All three witnesses were co-operative, intelligent. By noon Susan was through. She called the apartment.

Gwen whooped with joy. "I've been saying mantras all over the place you'd be through quick! I've just had—"

"An idea?"

"How'd you know. Meet you at Marlene's in half an hour. We're going to get you an irresistible evening dress!"

Susan was both amused and dismayed. She hadn't ever had a real evening dress and didn't feel any permanent need of one now. But once in the dressing room, she fell under the spell of Gwen and Marlene's enthusiasm. And when they did find the dress, she felt a glowing tingle. Strange what the right gown could do. It was a simple thing of flowing lines that made her feel at once freshly young and smoothly sophisticated. Against it's chalk whiteness the golden tan of her arms and throat were rich bronze, her hair darkly lustrous. She held her breath as she asked the price. It wasn't too high. Once in a blue moon she could afford an exciting luxury like this.

When Gwen knocked on her door at eight-thirty, she was ready and waiting for inspection. "Come in!"

Gwen opened the door and immediately gave a crooning shout. "Charley—come here! And that upsweep is exactly right! I knew Chevalier would concoct the perfect coiffeur. You're a cover girl!"

Charley waited to answer the phone. He had a slight argument over it and when he came in his smile was troubled. He gave Susan a troubled, appreciative smile. "Yeah, you're a real knockout," he growled. "And of all the rotten deals. Desmond can't show—business."

In the end the three of them went to the Book.

For Susan it was an evening of enchantment. The soft lights, the throbbing pulse of the orchestra wove the background this new creature in the chalk white gown desires.

"You're the glamour girl of the evening," Charley assured her as they danced. "I'm not kidding. You're collecting ogles from all sides."

During ices and demi-tasses, a man in evening clothes stopped at their table. "I'm following you around, Cogswell." They looked up. Gwen's gasp was audible. It was Chick Malloy! Charlie introduced him.

In spite of herself Susan felt a thrill of elation as he sat down. She told herself that he would be on his way in a minute or so. But apparently he had no such intention. He asked Susan to dance.

The enchantment of the evening deepened suddenly. Being Chick Malloy's partner was heady wine. He knew everyone, he danced like a dream, he had an infectious gaiety and an insatiable curiosity about Susan.

At midnight he had an inspiration. Why shouldn't the four of them go out and look over his yacht? It was just back from war duty with the Coast Guard and he wanted to see how its paint job was coming.

Charley was for it but Gwen was feverishly obstinate. She had a Red Cross meeting early tomorrow. Why didn't Susan go? It was her last night in town.

The Steffy was the final note of glamour in a glamorous night. A handsome fifty-foot cruiser, the kind of boat Susan had seen only in movies. Drifting at anchor in the moonlit river it seemed too perfect to be real. She said so as she and Chick stood together at the rail.

"Just what I thought about you," said Chick Malloy, "at Fortino's last night. It took a bit of doing to track down your plans for this evening and get old Collins to insist Desmond go over his policy—"

"You—" Susan stared at him, "did that?"

Chick smiled down at her blithely. "It looked like a lean winter before you came to town, Arabella, but now I feel like going places again."

"Home for instance," laughed Susan, "because I've a train to catch back to Midvale to a job I happen to be holding down."

"A career woman," groaned Chick. "Okay, I'll find you a job here that won't take up too much of your time."

He was still making plans and Susan was still laughing at them when he said good night at the apartment door. Her laughter was lilting with excitement, even as she evaded his kiss and firmly shut the door.

To be continued Saturday.

MINERVA'S MAIL

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

The Lady Said "No," But Not With Thanks

Not too long ago there was a letter from one of our readers who had a bone to pick with the motorists who did not ask those who were standing on corners waiting for buses or street cars, to ride. Well—today we have an answer from at least one source, and I rather imagine there are many who could tell the same tale.

Glendora tried inviting someone to ride, and in the following letter she tells what happens:

Dear Minerva: "A Reader" needn't have attempted to bribe you with a dare to get his contribution into print. Just the address and a three cent stamp on the envelope containing it would have been sufficient.

A Reader is angry because motorists don't offer him a lift as he waits at the bus stop. He says that he keeps busy taking down the licenses of cars passing him by. If I saw a person standing on a corner, apparently busy taking down notes of some sort, I would conclude that he was out after statistics and had business on that corner, not that he was waiting for a ride.

I drive into town often, but I always have a legitimate reason for doing so and I have never exceeded my A card allotment. I have picked up scores of people at street corners, and most of them have been grateful for the lift. But you can get a setback which makes you feel at the time like you will never offer another person a ride.

I pulled up at the stop sign at Twenty-fifth and South streets one hot day. I had just met the street car going out, so I knew it would be 20 minutes before it got back. A woman was waiting there so I called out and invited her to ride. Well, she gave me a scathing look and said, "I could have driven my car if I had so desired, but I think it more patriotic to ride the trolley, and I would advise you to do likewise."

Believe me, it was a good long time before I could get up the courage to ask the next fellow to ride. People who really want to be picked up by motorists could help a great deal if they would only show by some sign that they want to ride. They wouldn't need to use their thumbs; a nod, a smile, lift of the hand or a step toward the curb would be enough. But most of them either wait with a scowl or glare in their eyes, or stand with their backs toward the motorist.

A reader refers to our broken down buses. Don't blame the traction company for that. I don't remember when I was madder or more disgusted than when certain so-called "civic minded" persons interested themselves in getting the fare reduced to five cents. If a bus or trolley ride in the city of Lincoln isn't worth a dime, it isn't worth anything. And how in the world any company can be expected to keep up its equipment, pay a fair wage and otherwise meet its enormous overhead on a nickel fare, is more than I can figure out. (I am not in any way connected with any transportation company—but I am the wife of a business man and I know you can't conduct a business on nothing.) I expect the buses need every passenger they can squeeze on to help meet this expense. I have seen motorists drive up to a stop and pick up a passenger or two right from the very step of a loading trolley or bus. After the bus has stopped, or is about to stop, the least a citizen can do is to get on and ride. His nickel surely isn't much but it would help.—GLENDORA.

HEALTHY PEOPLE

The season immediately ahead adds to the joy of living.

One of the great privileges Nebraska provides is the clear skies in all of their blueness, and the clean, nipping air of fall.

This approaching fall season should be unusually attractive when Jack Frost applies his color brush to the leaves. A spring and summer of abundant moisture has produced the heaviest tree foliage in many years in all of the towns and cities and in the woodlands along the streams. All that now remains is for the master painter to do his stuff in bright reds, yellows and browns.

This region is blessed with factors which contribute to a healthy, sturdy people. No overcrowding, no undue smoke from congested cities with their great factories, but clean, pure air and vast spaces make for health.

Amazingly, in all war's demands upon the medical profession, not only Nebraska, but most of the United States, has gone through the struggle without the outbreak of serious epidemics. It was different in the first world war. In that conflict, the influenza sweep which started on the Pacific coast and then swung across the country eastward claimed the lives of thousands of civilians.

New medical practices and new drugs have served the American people well.

Colonel Wright

To Dayton, O., goes Col. Frank W. Wright, commanding officer of the Lincoln army airfield since it was taken over by the Second Air Force. The transfer comes in recognition of Col. Wright's splendid service. Since taking up residence here, he has impressed the citizens of Lincoln with his soldierly qualities and his devotion to his duties.

Col. Wright is being succeeded by Lt. Col. Sig R. Young, a veteran pilot of aerial warfare against the Japs in the southwest Pacific and, in that role, a member of the Nineteenth bombardment group. He saw much action in the early tough battles of the Pacific when the Japs were spreading out in overwhelming force over the vast reaches of the Pacific waters.

Enrollment Increase

Many factors contribute to the reported increase in the freshman enrollment at the University of Nebraska.

With the peak tide of war production expected to drop at the close of the war in Europe, the young folks are going back to college. That in itself is gratifying because completion of education is so important. Then, improved financial conditions in part account for the increased number reporting for classroom study.

Along with all other educational institutions, the University of Nebraska has felt the impact of war and has made a splendid contribution to America's efforts.

First Things First

General De Gaulle's demand that France be taken into consideration in the policing of Germany following defeat of the German armies has been noted.

At this time it is not clear what reaction will follow the fiery Frenchman's words. He has performed a great service for his country simply by keeping alive in the hearts of Frenchmen that spark of resistance to German conquest.

He has a difficult task on his hands. The rehabilitation of France is a job all in itself. Its people are not united. That was impressively in evidence when, in an hour of great joy in liberation from the oppressor's heels, still the differences between factions, especially in Paris, but in all French cities and towns and in the country districts, found Frenchmen arrayed against Frenchmen, with organized man hunts on foot to ferret out collaborationists with Germany.

It would not seem to be unreasonable to conclude that the greatest contribution De Gaulle could make to his own country would be to restore it to order and to health. A sound foundation within France would be so infinitely more valuable to France itself, and to Europe and the world, than any added responsibilities and burdens France might undertake beyond her frontiers. Those who have liberated her have a right to expect that France first will tackle her own problems before seeking a place in the sun beyond her frontiers.

This applies with equal force to all the occupied countries. Within their borders there are sharply-divided groups which must be brought together in unity. What a fearful thing it would be if this is to be neglected by ambitious men within the governments of these occupied lands.

In all the job of reconstructing cities, re-establishing production, reuniting families, returning children to their parents, putting fathers and mothers and children under one roof, it would seem that De Gaulle, or any other leader in any occupied country, has plenty on his hands to keep him fully occupied. If this essential task of reconstruction is neglected, then the foundation of an orderly and peaceful Europe will be denied. For the re-establishment of production and the re-establishment of the home and the development of unity within these countries is the first job at hand.

PLUG FOR MacARTHUR

In Chicago before the microphone, accepting the republican nomination for the presidency, Governor Dewey gave his pledge to the delegates who had chosen him and to the American people to leave the American military commanders undisturbed during this war.

At Valentine, Neb., in response to questions by correspondents, the republican candidate said:

"Now that General MacArthur no longer is a political threat to President Roosevelt, it would seem appropriate that his great talents should be given greater scope, and recognition."

That was a very mean, a very contemptible and a very little thing for Governor Dewey to say. If he is hell-bent on a mission to commit great mischief in the final phases of this war, he could not adopt a course better suited to accomplish it.

The American people admire General MacArthur. They recognize and they respect his great contributions in the struggle against Japan. And, in the same breath, they know the rivalries and the little jealousies that exist, and they are content to abide by the wisdom and judgment of General Marshall, the American chief-of-staff, and above him President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill.

It just so happens that on the morning following Governor Dewey's regrettable injection of a plug for MacArthur, Marquis Childs had written of the great services of General George C. Marshall.

There could be no better measure of Dewey's messing and bungling in this second chapter of a global war than to review the words Childs applied to Marshall:

"The extent of our collective debt to General George C. Marshall for his achievements during the past four years can hardly be measured in tangible terms . . . He has deliberately effaced himself, not through any false sense of modesty, but out of his belief that he could work most effectively if he stood a little out of the glare of publicity. Personal adulation—the whole fetish of portraits, photographs busts, is genuinely embarrassing to him.' '

Now there is the man in simple lines upon whom the lives and the safety of American boys so largely depend. Quiet, humble, selfless—rarely in the headlines and then never by personal desire—rarely seen—there is Marshall.

"All he wants when his task is finished," Childs wrote, "is to retire to his small farm in Virginia; to write a little, perhaps; to live over with comrades the drama of the past. The lure of power, its subtle seduction, seems never to have touched him. The contrast with certain figures out of history is striking."

Millions of Americans would like to think, and have reason to believe, that all this interference by friends of MacArthur is distasteful to the general. But Childs adds another note:

"With the scrupulousness of a true soldier, he (Marshall) has been careful never to infringe on the political sphere. At the present conference in Quebec, as in all such meetings in the past, he will give his opinions as chief-of-staff, but the ultimate decisions are not his except as his wisdom may help to shape them. From the very beginning, one of his chief objectives was real co-operation with his allies. He instilled that into General Eisenhower, who, in turn, drilled it into every man in his command. Likewise, General Marshall has worked night and day for unity of command as between the army and the navy. Together with Admiral King, he has tried to stamp out the jealousies and the conflicts which have hampered the team work essential in global war."

It has paid grand dividends.

A war that hung ponderously over American heads is being brought to a victorious conclusion, months, possibly years, before it was believed possible in the beginning.

General MacArthur, a great soldier, has been the victim of well-meaning but misguided friends. There are the recollections of that silly, idiotic correspondence which Nebraska's Fourth district congressman, "Doc" Miller, gave out to the press and which MacArthur felt called upon to repudiate. Now along comes Tom Dewey, who describes himself as a young man, and then proves it, to repeat the same inane performance. The president's trip to Hawaii so sharply criticized by Governor Dewey and his republican friends resulted in General MacArthur being called in for conferences, along with Admiral Nimitz. MacArthur is a ground commander. Much of the operations in the Pacific involve water tactics.

The kindest advice to Governor Dewey would be to urge that he not permit himself to be tossed for losses in popular estimation by the inquiring newspapermen.

He gave his pledge to leave the military alone. He said specifically in late June at Chicago that military matters would be left to military men. Here it is mid-September and flaunting his own words, he is out with counsel and advice upon the supreme command in the Pacific in the war against Japan, when the man on the street and his good wife at home know that matters of supreme command must be settled not solely by President Roosevelt but after consultation and agreement with America's allies.

This is among Childs' closing words:

"President Roosevelt, as commander-in-chief, jumped Marshall over the heads of 20 major generals and 14 brigadiers to make him, first, acting chief-of-staff, and then, with the outbreak of war in Europe four years ago, chief-of-staff."

There is a war yet to be finished after Germany is defeated—the complete defeat of Japan—and it is not going to help if Governor Dewey, out stumping the sticks, persists in messing around in this fashion.

Historic Ground

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill are in consultation within sight of the Plains of Abraham, where just 185 years ago, September 13, 1759, was fought the battle which finally gave Canada to the British and ended French misrule in the country to the north.

Both Wolfe, the British commander, and Montcalm, in command of the French forces, were killed during the engagement, and each, when told that his wounds were fatal, thanked God—Wolfe, that his army had been successful, and Montcalm, that he would not live to see the fall of Quebec.

The DAILY WASHINGTON
MERRY-GO-ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON
(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen on active duty.)

WASHINGTON — Washington tea cups are rattling over the new motion picture "Wilson" and Geraldine Fitzgerald's rendition of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson II.

Mrs. Wilson, the former Widow Galt, is still quite a personage in Washington, with plenty of friends and plenty of enemies. She didn't go to the Washington opening of the picture (having already gone to the New York opening), but both her friends and her enemies did. And they have plenty to say.

General reaction is that the picture is one of Hollywood's masterpieces and should be seen by everyone at a time when winning the peace is so important. But Washington society is tearing it to pieces when it comes to Mrs. Wilson II.

Lovely Geraldine Fitzgerald as Mrs. Wilson II is too generous, too beautiful for the ladies of Washington, who cannot forget the way in which the Widow Galt became the "Mrs. President" of the Wilson administration, insisted on handling matters of state, and generally domineered the White House.

If it hadn't been for the high-handed tactics of Mrs. Wilson II, many people believe that Wilson's troubles with the senate would not have been so unfortunate and that the peace structure he built at Versailles would not have been so disastrously rebuffed.

Quebec Conference.

Intimate advisers with whom the president talked before leaving for Quebec got the definite impression that he planned to have a friendly but frank showdown with the prime minister regarding certain Far Eastern problems which have rankled in Anglo-American relations. Also the president was confident that this Quebec conference would have more concrete results than that of one year ago.

At the time of the last Quebec meeting, August, 1943, relations with Russia were on tenterhooks. The second front had not yet been pledged to Stalin, there were rumors that Russia might even get out of the war, and the allied picture generally was not bright enough to permit the president personally to push certain Anglo-American differences too far.

Nevertheless, the president's military and naval men did a lot of pushing and, as a result, the last Quebec meeting was one of the most vigorous of the entire war. The sparks literally flew around the citadel.

Now, one year later, almost exactly the same problems—the Far East and Burma—remain to be threshed out. And with the war going infinitely better, the inside story of the last Quebec conference can now be told.

With the prime minister still not ready to start the second front in western France, the president told him that the United States could not wait in the Pacific and must forge ahead. Accordingly, the problem of recapturing the Burma Road, Singapore and the Malays came up for vital discussion.

To retake any part of them, the British fleet naturally was necessary. It was agreed that, after the Mediterranean had been cleaned up, the British fleet could be shifted to Indian waters.

British Delay.

The American chiefs of staff naturally were anxious to begin the Burma-Malay campaign soon. But the late Sir Dudley Pound, then first sea lord, said that His Majesty's warships would have to be returned from the Mediterranean to home waters to have their bottoms scraped and give their crews a rest.

"When can they reach Indian waters," asked General Marshall.

"In March or April," replied Sir Dudley Pound.

Pound was referring to the spring of 1944 and, since the Quebec conference was in August, 1943, this meant a delay of seven or eight months. So the amazed General Marshall shot back:

"But that's just about the beginning of the monsoon season." This, of course, meant several months more delay because of the heavy rains.

But the unperturbed Admiral Pound replied: "Quite so, quite so."

General Marshall, who can be very blunt, then told the British in effect that they were stalling on the whole Far Eastern campaign, and turned to the Admiral Leahy for for support. Admiral Pound very much resented Marshall's accusation and said so. But Admiral Leahy vigorously backed Marshall up. Admiral Ernest King, commander of the U. S. fleet, said nothing.

This was just one of several forthright military arguments which took place at Quebec last year. Good military men, of course, are picked because they have strong minds, and showdowns of his kind frequently occurred between Allied leaders in the last war.

However, this does not get away from the fact that today, one year and one month later, the Burma campaign is no more advanced, nor have any efforts been made to retake Singapore or the Malays. Also it is inescapable that exactly the same problems, affecting India, China and British delays in the Far East, must now be ironed out at the second Quebec conference.

DIET AND HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "The Human Body"

CAUSES AND CURE OF GALLSTONES

Gallstones is something that might happen to anybody. In fact, according to statistics, it already has happened to 10 per cent of the population. Some statistics show that in women over sixty, one out of four (25 per cent) have gallstones.

The reasons for this frequency are not far to seek. The gallbladder is a little sac in which bile rests quietly most of the 24 hours, until the bile is needed in fat digestion. The bile contains in solution substances which can crystallize and form stones.

This does not happen unless there is a central foreign body around which to crystallize. Since all the blood from the intestines goes to the liver first, in the course of 40 years a good deal of this blood must contain bacteria. This lodges in the gallbladder and forms the nucleus for, first, inflammation and, second, gallstone formation.

Treatment Of Gallstones.

The treatment of gallstones would seem to be a fairly obvious matter. We can detect them with a very high degree of accuracy and frequency. The dye test with the X-ray is very dependable. Surgery has reached such a state of perfection that gallstones can be removed completely and finally with a minimum of risk. Surgery is the only way.

But human nature being what it is and Nature in general being what it is, everybody who has them does not necessarily run to have them hacked out on the slightest provocation. And I may say that I am quite sympathetic to that attitude. I am not at all hardboiled towards people who are trying to avoid surgery.

One may reasonably ask, however, whether the patient is running any grave risk if he elects to keep his gallstones a while and give up his surgeon.

A Boston surgeon, Dr. Bearse, has reviewed his experiences with his gallstone patients with these questions in mind. He found that a consecutive series of about 250 patients had had gallstones for over five years. About three-fifths had no complications and seemed in quite good health.

Of course the occurrence of complications — jaundice, intractable indigestion, prostrating attacks of colic — should call for operation, in spite of all objections. This report concludes, however: "Operation may safely be deferred in patients with gallstones so long as there are no complications and provided the postponement does not impair the patient's resistance."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

T. H.: What effect does coffee have on high blood pressure? I am 70 years old.

Answer: Coffee has no effect on blood pressure. It is good for people 70 years old.

Q. Have you any suggestions for overcoming blushing, in the youth or adult?

A. Blushing can be reduced if the person will get it out of his or her head that it matters, rather consider it a distinguished item in personality, making him different from others.

T. O'R.: When the feet begin to burn and turn reddish-blue a few minutes after resting on the floor is this a circulatory disturbance, and what can be done about it?

Answer: Yes, it is a circulatory disturbance, but may be induced by diabetes. Have a urinalysis for sugar. Treatment is by heat and leg exercises, but it is serious enough to warrant medical consultation.

Mrs. J. H.: Please explain the injection called theelin. I am 41 years old and very nervous. A doctor advised this treatment.

Answer: Theelin is an ovarian derivative that has been very successful in substitution therapy, especially for relieving symptoms in the change of life.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

(Forum communications to The Lincoln Star should be limited to 500 words. The letters to this department represent the individual views of the writers and may or may not express the views of this newspaper.)

Another View

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In his "View of Lincoln" Mr. Gerald D. Lee of New York City was superb up to where he lunged deep into the senseless eulogy of Mr. Roy for his "Time Changes Hearts," and "Garden Blitz." I think that the space given Mr. Roy in the Forum column could have been more profitably used up by writers who know what they are writing about.

LARRY W. NORDHAM.

Part of the Job

Norfolk, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Sec. 2, Art. 2 of the constitution of the United States provides:

The president shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states when called into active service of the United States.

Governor Dewey when he accepted the republican nomination for president made it very plain he would not assume the responsibility of commander-in-chief but would leave the war to the generals and admirals. If Lincoln had taken the presidency in that frame of mind, we would probably be fighting the Civil war yet.

Thank the Lord, Lincoln was not a Dewey. OLD MEANY.

Good Judgments

Overton, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Figuratively speaking when Roosevelt was first elected, he went over and told congress there was a disease in the country left by the republicans; they called it depression. He told congress he had some good medicine for depressions and he would give it to the patient if congress would give him the power. Congress told him to hop to it.

He went back home, pulled off his coat, rolled up his sleeves, spat on his hands and told the bankers to close their doors and leave them closed until the mess was cleaned up. He said he had seen enough of the people's hard-earned money swallowed up by thousands of broken banks. Then the banks were re-opened and he told the public they could put their money in the banks and he would guarantee they could get it out. Then he stepped up to the gold dollar and shook his fist under its nose and told it it was largely to blame for the conditions, that it had been measuring all the nation's wealth by its little puny insignificant self.

When Roosevelt reduced the value of the dollar 40 per cent, it reduced the farmers' debt, taxes, and interest 40 per cent. Roosevelt was so sure that these and other new deal measures would increase farm prices that when corn was only 12 cents per bushel here in Overton, he told the farmers to crib their corn and he would guarantee them not less than 45 cents when he got the New Deal working. My neighbor took the president's advice and cribbed his 12-cent corn and sold it in a short time for one dollar per bushel. Would he show good judgment to vote against him?

W. WINSLOW.

Against Homes

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The city assessment department "marks up" the tax value of homes, homesites and other realty in Lincoln but does not "mark up" the assessed value of other classes of directly taxable property in the city. That kind of "mark up" is nothing more or less than an unjustified "hold up" of the very class of property that we as a nation are fighting to preserve and protect.

The home is our most important national institution. Under no circumstances should we be so short-sighted as to wreck the very class of property we are nationally trying to save.

The city assessment department is a needless, useless, and harmful department and does not exist in any other city or town in the state of Nebraska.

A system that establishes a higher level of tax value on homes than it does on the highly productive property of foreign private corporations should have no place in the administrative structure of a capital city. The owners of homes and other realty should rise up and demand the abolishment of this needless department and see to it that the officers of this department work more co-operatively with the official assessor of state, county and city property. The right of the county assessor to assess city property within his county is established by state law. Mr. Harry Scott, the duly elected county assessor, is the only county assessor in the state of Nebraska that is harassed by the disturbing activities of a city assessment department. REES WILKINSON.

Able To Judge

Anselmo, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Most politicians seem to be rather dumb in a lot of ways. First, they take it for granted that the people are dumb and need a lot of telling so they start out by telling what a real bad fellow their opponent is and what an awful good person they themselves will be. Now how far do they get in a court of law by calling their opponent bad names? There they find they get much farther by using good manners, being polite and especially consistent. Consistency is always a jewel but some people forget it.

For instance, the people lose faith in a congressman who argues on one side of a proposition for awhile and in a few days takes the opposite side. Maybe he thinks states rights are of the utmost importance for a few days, then decides states rights won't do at all. As the old saying is: It just depends on whose ox is being gored.

We see by the papers some people think it is a sin, a crime, an outrage, to vote on prohibition while our soldiers are away from home. Now to be consistent, we should postpone all elections until our soldiers return for we might possibly elect a president our soldiers did not want. Would that not be a crime? If a scientist has a new idea, a new invention, or anything to improve or better the human race, does he start out by calling other theories bad names? He does not. He just tries to show that his methods his system or his invention would be better and just so, a statesman would try to show that his ideas, his methods, plan or law would be beneficial to his country.

Politicians should realize that common people are able to judge questions on their merits. You cannot just shoo them along like a flock of geese. People do not pay a great deal of attention to what a man says. They judge more by what his attitude, or actions, or work has been, thinking no doubt of the text: "By their fruits shall ye know them."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AT HITLER'S DEATH.

I could write a bit to gloat,
But I choose a sadder note,
That a man could rise so high and fall so low;
That one man could come to birth
To lay desolate the earth
And leave behind a trail of utter woe!

Now the little loss of breath,
Known as Adolph Hitler's death,
Howsoever just men hold it, comes too late.
For a generation marred,
Mind and soul and body scarred,
A single death can never compensate.

They must live when Hitler's dead,
For destruction born and bred,
Knowing nothing but his methods and his creed.
Every single German boy
Has been tutored to destroy,
And a thorough mental cleansing he will need.

Oh, a cheer is sure to rise
'Round the world when Hitler dies,
But the evil of his life will long remain.
For a generation stays
Stamped with Hitler's bloody ways,
And is waiting for the chance to fight again.

Washington Calling

By MARQUIS CHILDS.

NEW YORK — Events of the past ten days have greatly increased Governor Dewey's chances of election. More significant than the outcome of the Maine election is the fact that forthcoming polls will show a noticeable gain in Dewey strength and a corresponding decline in Roosevelt's stature.

What makes the result of the newest polls particularly interesting is the fact they were taken during the week Paris fell. During that same week Dewey sent John Foster Dulles to Washington to confer with Secretary Cordell Hull on the Dumbarton Oaks talks, thereby identifying himself with the coming peace.

Did the fall of Paris symbolize to many voters the end of the war in Europe? And do they feel that with the end of the European war Roosevelt's services are no longer essential?

Those are the big questions as the campaign enters the intensive stage. If the answer in both instances is yes, then the odds shift from Roosevelt to Dewey. While the president still leads, his margin is growing smaller.

In Maine, according to pollster George Gallup's analysis of the figures, the democrats polled a smaller percentage of the vote than at any time since the civil war. Gallup, who plays with figures as a vocation and an avocation, applied this same proportionate decline to the 1940 voting totals in key states, and the result showed Dewey carrying virtually all of these states. How much that actually means, only November 7 will prove.

But there is little doubt that the size of the vote cast is likely to decide the outcome of the election. It's difficult for the most expert pollsters to make any estimate on this score. Gallup believes it will go under 45,000,000, and perhaps considerably under.

If it drops very much under 42,000,000, Dewey, in my opinion, is elected. The total vote in 1940 was about 50,000,000. This time, something like 12,000,000 workers have migrated from one part of the country to the other, and several million men and women of voting age are overseas.

Dewey's top advisors have stressed the significance of the small vote. They know that victory lies in apathy and indifference. This may explain the basic strategy of the Dewey campaign.

As all reports from his campaign train show, the republican candidate seems to be deliberately avoiding crowds in the course of his journey across the continent. His train is being hauled through switch yards and by circuitous routes around major cities. Secrecy is enforced on trainmen.

Who is he seeing, then? He's talking with the professional politicians who can get out the regular republican vote by tried and tested means. In his two campaign speeches thus far, as in his press conferences, he has stuck to generalizations, offending the fewest possible voters by cutting the content down to the commonest possible denominator.

Meanwhile, the attack conducted by the Dewey outriders is concentrated on the CIO and Sidny Hillman as a sinister ogre who will dictate America's political choice. That would be funny if it's implications weren't so serious. The CIO's political action committee has a long way to go to prove its effectiveness.

In one sense, Maine was no test at all. The national PAC committee put no money into Maine. The show up there was run locally.

In another sense, Maine showed why the effectiveness of PAC is certain to be limited. The local CIO organization in Maine insisted on putting up labor candidates as such, even though that is contrary to PAC policy. It would have been smarter politics to have backed Representative Margaret Chase Smith, who has had a good record and is an efficient congresswoman, rather than to have put energy and money on an opposition candidate, who, as the results showed, never had a chance.

PAC is only as good as its local organization. Discipline and direction cannot be enforced from a national office. The nightmare of Sidney Hillman scourging the country on an electronic broom is just that—a nightmare to scare babies with.

Fort Calhoun Observes 125th Anniversary Without Fanfare

. . . Site of Lewis, Clark Initial "Pow Wow"

FORT CALHOUN, Neb., Sept. 15—(AP)—Wartime restrictions will prevent a formal celebration of the event, but residents of tiny Fort Calhoun (pop. 329) recall that this month marks the 125th anniversary of its founding—as a military fort and Nebraska's first white settlement.

Located 15 miles north of Omaha, it is the site of the original Council Bluff where Lewis and Clark held their initial "pow wow" with the Nebraska Indians August 3, 1804. In 1819 it became the first U. S. fort in Nebraska and farthest west outpost on the western frontier; in 1855 it became the state's first incorporated village, a year before Omaha was incorporated.

At Fort Calhoun In 1541.

Coronado and his party of 30 Spanish cavalrymen were the first party of white men to explore this section and may have been the first to set foot on Nebraska soil during their visit in the summer of 1541, but the first record of white men dates back to 1804, when the Lewis and Clark expedition landed on a high bluff a few rods from the present town of Fort Calhoun.

A regiment of 800 officers and enlisted men under the command of Col. Henry Atkinson was ordered to Nebraska in 1817, landing about two miles north of the present town after an arduous journey up the Missouri in stern wheel steamboats.

The post was founded in 1819 and first called Cantonment Missouri and later Fort Atkinson. It consisted of a quadrangular fort enclosing a ten-acre parade ground. A large stone powder magazine, several brick store rooms, and a saw mill and grist mill were added later.

Scurvy Victims.

Although nearly 160 men died of scurvy during Fort Atkinson's first winter, gay years followed. Steamers plying their trade up and down the Missouri made the post a principal stopping place, and caravans bound for Santa Fe were assembled at Fort Atkinson. Roads radiated from the fort in all directions and Indians came for miles to glimpse the "great white father's" military strength—a garrison of more than 1000 men.

Between 1819 and 1837 business boomed. The fur trade alone amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly.

With the development of the Santa Fe and Oregon trails, however, Fort Atkinson was abandoned and in 1827 the troops moved to Fort Leavenworth. Six years later explorers found the fort in ruins, only the great stone chimneys still standing in the spot where a state was born.

Once County Seat.

Agricultural settlers gradually built up the present town, naming it Fort Calhoun after Secretary of War John C. Calhoun. Upon the organization of Washington county in 1855, Fort Calhoun again flourished briefly and for a time was county seat. The county government was later moved to De Soto and eventually to Blair, the present county seat.

Farmers plowing near the old fort often unearth relics of the fort's heyday, and sometimes uncovered the bones of American soldiers buried there.

Most of the mementoes of that century have been collected and placed in a museum which was opened in 1938. A Lewis and Clark monument, dedicated at the town's centennial celebration in 1919, was placed in the village park by the D. A. R.

Fort Calhoun's commercial boom was sealed with the advent of the railroad, but today it is the center of a prosperous agricultural community of 329—many of them descendants of the original settlers.

Platte Flood 'Act Of God', Says Brief

Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation district, against which a jury in Buffalo county District court gave judgment for $1,000 for overflow of the land of Milton H. Webb in the flood of June 13, 1943, resists the same in Supreme court alleging in a brief filed Thursday that this particular flood was so unusually beyond the record for high water over a period of 50 years as to be classed as "an Act of God." The district contends it would have been impossible by using all emergency means of diverting the water that came down the Kearney canal, which it controls, to have prevented the damage Webb suffered. Besides, the brief tells, had water been turned into ravines along the canal's course this would have been directing it on land where the district held no right of way.

FARM WOMEN'S EXCHANGE

EDITED by CLARA BELL GRAVES

Address your letters to Mrs. Clara Bell Graves, editor, The Lincoln Star Exchange, 905 N. 5th St., Springfield, Ill.

A reader's letter says, "Why, I have helped Dad rear his four children after my mother's death and these along with our own four. When his children married, Dad lived with us. During this period, I gave a sister a helping hand in taking care of her two children in our home for awhile. In later years, one of our daughters lost her husband in death and brought to us a tiny baby to care for while she secured and held employment.

"Friends have remarked, 'How can you undertake all this? What if you fall down on the job?'

"My reply was, 'I don't aim to, not with God to help me and a never failing husband.' "

Take your hats off, friends, to the motherly woman mentioned in the column today. She is not a fairy tale but a real alive woman who lives on a farm, raises chickens, fries them to a crisp, tempting brown and eats them, too.

Pie Pulling.

One of our readers suggested to us a few weeks ago that we caution our friends to never pull pie dough to an exact place on a pie tin. The dough will shrink, if you do, she says. Lay the dough gently onto the plate and then press the edges in place.

Peach Jelly.

It's news across the back fence that comes to this column, making jelly of peach peelings. Combine peach juice with grape juice, either fresh from the vines or from a bottle in any proportion that you wish or pineapple juice and make jelly as you wish, either with a liquid or powdered pectin or without.

Make Mustard.

When I first began my career as columnist, women wanted to know how to make mustard for table use. They still ask the same question. Into a bowl, put 3 teaspoons dry mustard, pour over it enough warm water to make a stiff paste and rub it smooth. Mix in ¼ cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon granulated sugar, pinch salt, 1 teaspoon cornstarch or flour. Add the beaten yolks of 2 eggs. Put bowl into a container of boiling water and stir mixture until it thickens. Add lump of butter, the size of an egg. Remove from hot water and let cool. Delicious.

Party Pages.

We must give you a list of party ideas as formerly. We failed to do this last fall and had more requests for such than we ever would have imagined. Games to play, refreshments to serve and just such things as will be of interest at a party, are listed. Send 5 cents in coin and a 3 cent, stamped, addressed envelope.

Grab Bag.

No more grab bag patterns.

Kosher Pickles.

So many women want a recipe for the flavorful kosher pickle. This is simple. Put 1 tablespoon salt into a 2 quart jar that has been sterilized, then cooled. Fill jar with medium size, uniform cucumbers. Add 2 tablespoons mixed spices and 4 cloves garlic. Fill jar with sterilized, cold water. Before sealing, stuff top of jar with dill. Seal tightly.

Don't Cry.

If you scorch your tomato catsup do not cry. Do as one of the readers did. Remove from the scorched kettle, put into another container and add to catsup, 1 small potato that you have peeled and quartered. Boil the catsup with the potato until catsup is thick, remove potato from catsup and pour as usual.

Potato, also purifies rancid grease. Allow the quartered potato to fry in rancid grease and the grease will clear, she says.

Oven Catsup.

This same reader says that after she had boiled her catsup on top of range for 2 hours, she put it into a 350 oven and allowed it to thicken for another hour. There is less danger of scorching and the catsup thickens in less time. Cover container with a lid to keep catsup moist and avoid a dry scum on top.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

Canned Prunes.

Many women are finding fruits scarce and high in price. I trust there is no restriction in recommending the canning of dried prunes.

Some folk may think that by this method the prunes are overcooked but I like them tender and free from the stones.

By cold packing dried prunes one saves fuel and time. A number of cans can be preserved at one time. Whether for the baby, lunch box or breakfast, they are ready at any time.

Wash, and cover prunes with hot water, then boil for 20 minutes on top of stove. Put into hot, sterilized jars, adding three tablespoons granulated sugar to each quart, leaving the accustomed space 1½ inches at the top of jar. Do not pack tightly. Process for 1 hour. One pound of prunes makes 1 quart of fruit.—MRS. CARLLIN WILSON, Washington, Ia.

Remove Print.

To remove color from feed sacks or printing, soak well in hot water then sprinkle with baking soda and rub generously with laundry soap, and let stand an hour. Rub well and rinse before putting into washing machine.—MRS. CARLLIN WILSON, Washington, Ia.

Another Lift.

The wooden lugs or containers in which fresh fruit is shipped are handy receptacles for carrying empty and filled jars to and from storage.—MRS. CARLLIN WILSON, Washington, Ia.

With you again next Friday or when space permits.

—100-MILE AN HOUR WINDS—

16 Die In East

. . . As Hurricane Blows Out to Sea Off Maine

(By the Associated Press.)

The great Atlantic hurricane blew out to sea off Maine today and headed toward St. John, New Brunswick, leaving in its wake death and widespread damage throughout the northeastern states.

Sixteen deaths were attributed to the storm and damage was estimated to be in the millions. Long Branch, N. J., alone reported more than $2,000,000 destruction.

Gales of 80 to 100 miles an hour whipped heavy rains, ripped buildings, snapped power and telephone lines, uprooted trees and disrupted transportation services.

300,000 Phones Dead.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. reported 300,000 telephones out of order from Pennsylvania to Maine.

Weather observers predicted the storm would probably hit St. John today, continue through New Brunswick into the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The storm on Long Island and in New England was exceeded in violence only by the devastating hurricane of Sept. 21, 1938, which battered the same area, taking more than 600 lives and causing damage estimated at $500,000,000.

Mountainous Waves.

Atlantic City and neighboring New Jersey coastal resorts appeared to have suffered the greatest damage. Mountainous waves struck the boardwalk sections of these cities while a 90-mile wind tore off roofs of some apartment houses and damaged other dwellings, leaving hundreds homeless. Both the famous million dollar and steel piers at Atlantic City suffered heavy damage from high seas and the smaller Heinz pier was reported almost totally destroyed.

Ocean City, Md., another resort community, was awash in a foot of water before the storm advanced northward.

Long Island, southeastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island also bore the full brunt of the gale, but its force was not as great as had been anticipated.

7 Die In N. Y. City.

A majority of the smaller towns of Long Island were without light and power after the storm, communications and transportation were almost completely disrupted and roads were littered with torn wires and toppled trees.

The New York City area and Connecticut escaped with comparatively little damage, although seven of the recorded deaths were in greater New York.

The storm winds reached a record of 95 miles an hour in New York, a 100-mile reading was recorded at Camp Edwards of Cape God and Boston reported a wind velocity of 98 miles an hour.

Nazi War Prisoner Caught Near Camp

Edward Christian Buergin, German war prisoner who escaped Tuesday night from the Dead Mountain war prisoner camp located sixty-five miles north west of Fort Collins, Colo., was apprehended Thursday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Bill Clark just twenty miles west of Ft. Collins. This information was released Thursday night by Duane L. Traynor, special agent in charge of the F. B. I. in Omaha.

Senate Cuts Highway Bill

. . . STATES MUST MATCH FUNDS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—(AP)—The senate roads committee yesterday rewrote the postwar highway bill to slash proposed federal contributions by more than a half billion dollars and require states to match government payments on a 50-50 basis.

Seeking to win over economy-minded senators the committee revised the bill to:

1. Reduce federal contributions to the road system from $650,000,000 to $450,000,000 annually for three postwar years.
2. Require the states to put up matching funds on a dollar-for-dollar basis rather than 40 per cent provided in the original bill.

The federal contributions would be fixed at $200,000,000 for the old federal-aid highway system, $125,000,000 for farm-to-market roads and $125,000,000 for urban highways.

As revised the bill contemplates a three-year road program, including state payments, costing $2,825,250,000 as compared with the original $3,375,250,000 and increases state payments substantially.

Suppose every man, woman and child

In SEWARD were KILLED!

Seward is a typical Nebraska town, with a population of about 3,000.

If every living soul in it should suddenly be struck dead, what a fearful shock it would be to Nebraska!

Well, 3,283 Americans were struck dead in a single day not so long ago—on just one of the many battlefronts on which we're fighting. But the papers didn't scream with horror. On the contrary—they blazoned forth the good news: "LOSSES LIGHT!"

Maybe the fact that it's good news when only a townful of Americans are wiped out will give you an idea of the gigantic war we're fighting today. Maybe it will help drive home to us the fact that now—right now—we're making the supreme military effort of this whole conflict.

That effort must be matched by the supreme financial effort of the war—at home!

Right now, it's up to us to buy War Bonds as we've never bought them before—and to keep on buying War Bonds until the last vestige of a will to fight has been thoroughly knocked out of every Jap and Nazi!

It will mean sacrifice—certainly. But when American youngsters are dying bloodily by thousands, "sacrifice" is not a word that's ours to use.

And here are 5 more reasons for buying Extra War Bonds!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the War.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

Buy your invasion bonds today!

Joseph the Provider

Based on a Book-of-the-Month

BY THOMAS MANN
Illustrations by C. B. Falls

"The youngest had it," Mai-Sachme said.

It was Judah who answered, "We are guilty before you, O Lord."

He said, "I am your brother Joseph!"

THE brothers held their heads, staring at the cup till their eyes bulged out. They whistled through lips so puffed out they could not speak.

At last they cried, "Benjamin! Defend yourself. Open your mouth. How did you come by the cup?"

But Benjamin was silent, his chin on his chest. He kept silence when all insisted upon returning with him and Mai-Sachme. Once more they stood in the hall of Joseph's home while the steward went in and handed the cup to the lord. The corner of Mai-Sachme's mouth was drawn tight. "The youngest had it," he said. "They await your sentence."

"All of them?" Joseph asked. Mai-Sachme said it was so. "I am busy," Joseph said, pretending to read a roll which he could not see. But at last he went to the great hall and with the cup in his hand he sat down. The brothers flung themselves down. "Stand up," said Joseph. "Have you admitted your guilt?"

It was Judah who answered. "We are guilty before you, O lord, in the sense that your cup was found with one of us and that means with all. How the cup came into the sack of the youngest and most innocent we do not know. All that has happened has its source in one single mystery. But my word can deal with this mystery here only through the revelation of another mystery."

A murmuring arose among the brothers. They stirred uneasily. But Judah the lion spoke on:

"I took the responsibility before my father. Accept my offer. Me shall you keep for your bondman instead of the lad. I myself will expiate for us all. Here before you, strange man, I take the frightful oath we brothers swore—with both hands I break it in two across my knee.

"Our eleventh brother, the father's ewe lamb, first son of the true wife, him the beast did not rend; but we his brothers sold him into the world."

Judah stood there weaving to and fro. The brothers had gone pale. Joseph got up from his seat and glittering tears ran down his cheeks.

"All that is Egyptian go out from me!" said he. "Go! For I invited God and the world to this play but now shall God alone be witness."

Mai-Sachme urged the scribes out. And Joseph, heedless of the tears on his face, stretched out his arms.

"Children," he said, "here I am, I am your brother Joseph!"

Fortune Poll Shows Upsurge For Dewey

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(INS)—Fortune magazine announced today that in its poll on the national presidential election for the week ending Aug. 26, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey showed a sharp upsurge in popularity.

According to Fortune, the poll for that week gave President Roosevelt 49.3 per cent of the public preference, Gov. Dewey, 44.4 per cent, with 6.3 per cent undecided.

The magazine pointed out that for the week previous the president had taken 54.6 per cent and the GOP candidate 40.9 per cent, with the remainder uncommitted. This, said Fortune, is a drop of 5.3 for Mr. Roosevelt as against a gain of 3.5 for Mr. Dewey.

Capt. John Allen Home After Long African Service

. . . HE OILS AAF WHEELS

Oiling the wheels that supply the American air forces has been the work of Captain John A. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen of 3625 C street, since he arrived in Africa about 30 days after the Americans first landed.

Capt. John Allen

Describing his work as "strictly routine," the veteran of the African and Italian campaigns was enthusiastic about the quartermaster truck companies who "haul anything, anywhere, anytime."

The principal task is setting up the depot, the captain commented, and at the latter part of the African campaign the German air power was a formidable enemy.

"The supply depots are far enough to the rear to be fairly secure from attack," he explained, "and it's our job to see that the bombers are properly supplied and maintained. My particular responsibility was to see troops on the base were properly fed, clothed and housed as well as keeping the supply lines for the ships' fuel, spare engine parts and bombs open for action."

In Italy the supply troops moved in, in 1943, and Captain Allen commented that civilian economic life was badly disrupted.

Captain Allen is home on a 23-day leave after which he will report to the AAF redistribution center at Santa Monica, Calif., for duty.

Germans Assault Hogland

. . . Repelled by Finns

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 15—(AP)—German forces attacked the Finnish island of Hogland during the night and a weak nazi bridgehead was established, but most of the attacks were repelled and nine German ships were sunk or set afire, a Finnish communique announced today.

"Mopping up of the weak German bridgehead is continuing this morning," the communique said.

Today was the final day for clearance of German forces from Finland under the terms of the preliminary Finnish-Russian armistice agreement.

Demanded Surrender.

The text of the Finnish bulletin:

"During the night of Sept. 14-15 a German officer approached the commander of Hogland and demanded surrender of the island to German troops. The demand was categorically refused.

"At the same time German naval forces undertook attacks against various parts of the island's coast. All attacks were repelled except at one point, where the mopping up of the weak German bridgehead is continuing this morning.

"According to reports, nine German ships either were sunk or set on fire."

Hogland, also known as Hokhland, is a garrisoned island in the Gulf of Finland between the Finnish and the Estonian coasts 110 miles west of Leningrad and 70 miles east of Helsinki.

Lincoln Woman Says Interest Increasing In Tolerance Group

OMAHA, Sept. 15—(AP)—Progress is being made over the state in building up an organization known as the Nebraska temperance and tolerance group, Mrs. Ida M. Thurber, 73, of Lincoln, its founder, said.

Mrs. Thurber, ousted from the Women's Christian Temperance Union, declared here "I am opposed to the WCTU practice of having children sign pledges never to taste alcohol beverages. Those pledges are signed only to be broken and I believe it is more important to teach temperance than to have them signing a pledge."

The bayonet is said to have been invented in Bayonne, France, in the 17th century.

FIGHTING CAMPAIGN PROMISED

WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH WAR EFFORT, GOP NOMINEE SAYS IN MONT.

BILLINGS, Mont., Sept. 15—(AP)—A fighting campaign which he declared would not interfere with the war effort in the slightest degree was outlined today by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as he conferred with Montana's Gov. Sam Ford and other political leaders.

Old fashioned torchlights burned for the first time in his cross country campaign tour last night when a crowd estimated by police at 7,000 persons greeted the republican nominee on his arrival here from Sheridan, Wyo.

Standing on the station platform, the New York governor promised that "we will have a first class fight from now until election."

People Will Be Convinced.

"I am confident before we finish this campaign," his voice rolled out over the loud speakers, "the American people will be convinced there is no indispensable man out of our 130 million Americans."

Speaking for about 15 minutes in the unscheduled appearance Dewey renewed previous attacks on what he called the new deal's "creeping collectivism."

"I am entirely confident," he declared, "that we will change administrations and fight the war more effectively because we did so."

Shows Free Men Can Fight.

Repeating a theme he first used at Albany after his return from the Chicago republican convention, Dewey said that by holding an election at this time the American people were demonstrating in perhaps a most emphatic way that free men can wage a war.

Despite the rousing reception according him at Billings, some politicians continued to wonder why the republican nominee is spending so much time in the sparse electoral vote states of the west.

Since he left his native town of Omosso, Mich., Sunday afternoon Dewey visited Des Moines, Ia., Valentine, Neb., and Sheridan, Wyo., before coming to Billings. In that period he devoted eight hours to Iowa, which has 10 electoral votes, 32 hours to Nebraska, six votes, and eight hours to Wyoming, three votes. Montana adds four votes.

There was some grumbling among the veteran politicians that the New York governor was "wasting time" on territory most of them think will be republican in November anyway.

But Harry B. Henderson, GOP state chairman of Wyoming gave another side of the picture. He told a reporter he thought the nominee was building a solid organization that would pay off on election day.

Dead In Train Wreck Now 29

. . . 26 COMBAT VETERANS DIE

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 15—(AP)—The toll of dead in the headon collision of two trains north of here yesterday increased to 29 today with the deaths in a hospital of two sergeants.

T/Sgt. Edward C. Gillan of Dixon, Ill., died at 1 a. m. Army officials released his name because his parents were with him when he died. Name of the other sergeant was withheld until his next of kin was notified.

The deaths increased to 26 the number of servicemen, all air force veterans, who died in the wreck of the 14-coach Chicago and Eastern Illinois Dixie Flyer and an express-mail train. Thirteen other airmen still are in hospitals, two in serious condition.

Three crewmen of the flyer were killed, and about 25 other trainmen and civilians were injured.

The soldiers, who had completed up to 50 missions in overseas combat, were en route to a redistribution center in Florida after completing 30-day furloughs. All of the dead and injured were non-commissioned officers.

Krause Pays Penalty

CHICAGO, Sept. 15—(AP)—Alvin Krause, 29, who spurned an offer to plead guilty to a second murder charge in exchange for an additional life sentence, died in the electric chair in the Cook county jail today.

Krause was sentenced to death for the muder of a currency exchange manager in a robbery. His execution cancelled a life sentence imposed by an all-woman jury which convicted him of the murder of a currency exchange cashier.

Martha Ann Reed is Bride of Sgt. Robert Bowen Ford

AN ALTAR hanging of lace and an altar arranged with white gladioli and tapers burning in four seven-branched candelabra formed the background for the marriage of Miss Martha Anne Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Albert Reed, to Tech Sgt. Robert Bowen Ford, son of Mrs. Stewart Scott Bloss of Winfield, Kans., and the late Roy B. Ford, which was solemnized at 8 o'clock, Thursday evening, at Westminster Presbyterian church. The Rev. Gerald Kendall of the First Baptist church read the lines of the ceremony in the presence of two hundred fifty guests.

Preceding the service, Mrs. Cornelia Gant Cole presented an organ prelude, and softly played "Liebestraum," Liszt, during the ceremony. The bridal music from Lohengrin was used as a processional and Mendelssohn wedding march as a recessional.

Mrs. Walter F. Gunther of Orange, Cal., in blush pink, was the matron of honor, and Miss Sidney Ann Gardner of New York City, in pale blue, was the maid of honor. They wore alike frocks of chiffon, fashioned with closely fitted bodices, bracelet length sleeves, and full gathered skirts. Small half-hats of chiffon in shades to match their gowns, and colonial bouquets of yellow roses and white daisies completed their costumes. The bridesmaids were Miss Alice Louise Becker of Arlington, Va., in rose, Miss Dorothy Filley, in rose, and Mrs. Sterling Mutz, jr., in pastel blue. The attendants' gowns were of silk faille and were fashioned on the same lines as those of the matron and maid of honor. They carried colonial bouquets of pink roses and white daisies, and wore small matching caps. Miss Betty Bloss of Winfield, Kas., in a frock of blue taffeta with a cluster of daisies in her hair, lighted the tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The basque bodice of her gown, which was designed with a heartshaped neckline and long sleeves tapering to points over the wrists, was of embroidered Sicilian lace, sent from Italy by Capt. Ralph Reed, brother of the bride. The softly gathered skirt of ivory satin fell into a long train, and her train length veil of ivory illusion was held to the head by a coronet of net and satin. She carried a spray bouquet of gardenias.

SGT. AND MRS. ROBERT FORD

Best man was Bruce Ford of Winfield, Kas., brother of the bridegroom, and seating the guests were Lt. Marcus Poteet of the Lincoln army air field, Lt. Paul Paulson of Minneapolis, Minn., Pvt. Sterling Mutz, jr., and Richard Hay.

A reception at the church was held immediately following the ceremony. Presiding at the refreshment table, which was covered with a lace cloth and appointed with a three-tiered wedding cake and white tapers in silver candelabra, were Mrs. Jess Todd, Mrs. Maurice Hyde, Mrs. Harry R. Ankeny and Mrs. Farley Young, assisted by Mrs. Lyle Gieseker and Mrs. M. H. Pollard, jr. Mrs. Warren K. Dalton of Omaha, Miss Betty Mahan, Mrs. John Ames, Mrs. A. W. Crites and Mrs. A. W. Frank assisted with the serving. In charge of the guest book was Miss Polly Jo Taylor.

Following a short wedding trip to Denver, Colo., Sgt. Ford and his bride will reside temporarily in Little Rock, Ark. For traveling, Mrs. Ford chose a wool dressmaker suit of deep purple with a feather cap in matching shade. Her accessorries were of brown lizard, and she wore a corsage of purple orchids.

Mrs. Ford has attended the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega and University players. Sgt. Ford, who is also a former student of the University of Nebraska, where he was pledged to Sigma Nu, has returned recently from twenty-seven months months overseas duty in the European theater.

Two Veteran Letter Carriers Honored At P. O. Reception

Two Lincoln letter carriers, whose years of service total 70, and who are retiring, were given a reception Thursday afternoon in the office of Postmaster O. E. Jerner.

Jesse F. Hansmire, 4903 Huntington street, is retiring after 37 years of service as a letter carrier from the University Place station. He entered the service July 1, 1907. After attaining the age of 60, he took optional retirement.

Carl J. A. Kling, 62, 2929 Potter street, is also taking optional retirement after 33 years of service as a letter carrier from the main office. He entered the service on Jan. 1, 1911.

Both were presented with a war bond at the reception at which appreciative and congratulatory remarks were given by Assistant Postmaster L. H. Watson, George Ross, foreman of carriers, and Lawrence James, president of the local branch, No. 8, National association of letter carriers, who made the presentations.

WACs in the army are engaged in medical work, personnel, public relations, instruction and training, physical sciences and mathematics, photography, languages, drafting, weather, and radio communications, and are ably filling, in all, 239 army assignments.

Post-War Taxes Main Theme At National Meet

Tax Commissioner Robert Armstrong, one of nine Nebraskans to attend the National Tax association conference in St. Louis this week, said that the outstanding topic for discussion was expected tax changes after the war. He found that New Jersey and Nebraska, not taking population into consideration, have about the same tax structure.

One interesting situation was that the state of Maine, which was the first in the union ever to adopt prohibition, now obtains $4,000,000 of its revenue from the liquor traffic. This, he found, is due to the great number of ship yards workers in Maine and to the fact the state has a liquor monopoly. Annual revenue from liquor in Nebraska is considerably above two million dollars.

Attending from Nebraska were Tax Commissioner Armstrong and his deputy H. A. Lyon; Senators Walter Raecke, A. J. Brodahl and J. C. Reavis of the state legislature; Walter L. Pierpoint, Association of Omaha Taxpayers; W. H. Buckingham, Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.; J. W. Weingarten, Burlington railroad; T. F. Hanley, Nebraska Power Co.

Yankee Leader Blasts Pro Grid Loop

—ED BARROW GIVES HINT OF OPEN WARFARE—

By JOHN CASHMAN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(INS)—An ultimate war between the officials of America's greatest professional sports—baseball and football—possibly had its omen today in the heated remarks the New York Yankees' president, Edward G. Barrow, uttered on the subject of football during the baseball season.

ED BARROW.

It seems that Mr. Barrow's nine was slated to engage the Philadelphia Athletics in a baseball contest which meant much in the final outcome of the blistering American league pennant race. Unfortunately, some undiscerning football men had permitted their elevens to chew up the sod of Shibe park, with the result that the diamond game, scheduled for Wednesday night, was postponed early that morning.

Rain last night again postponed the vital contest, with the result that Barrow's nine will be forced to undergo the rigors of an unexpected doubleheader with the A's at Yankee Stadium Saturday. Mr. Barrow does not like unanticipated twin bills at this stage of the game, since he wants his athletes to conserve their strength. If you have seen 1944 baseball, you will know what he means.

That Lacerated Field.

At any rate, Barrow was in high dudgeon.

"On Tuesday night," thundered Barrow, "24 hours before a scheduled American league championship contest, the Philadelphia Eagles and Cardinal-Steelers ripped up the field so badly that the baseball contest had to be postponed."

Barrow, who shuddered visibly at the vision of those foul football men desecrating the sacred sod of Shibe Park, continued:

"I never will believe this should have happened. If I have anything to say about the matter—and I will talk plenty in the December American league meetings—it will never happen again in the American league.

Proposes League Rule.

"I am drawing up a rule," Barrow concluded, "which would ban any baseball club from leasing its park for a football game before the close of the league season in that locale."

This is nothing new. It was only last year that Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, puffed none too complacently on his cigar and said that something would have to be done to protect baseball's status as the national pastime.

There was no mistaking his meaning. As a matter of fact, there was a distinct smell of war in the air, and there even was talk of closing out baseball parks to the footballmen if the gridiron game grew too greedy.

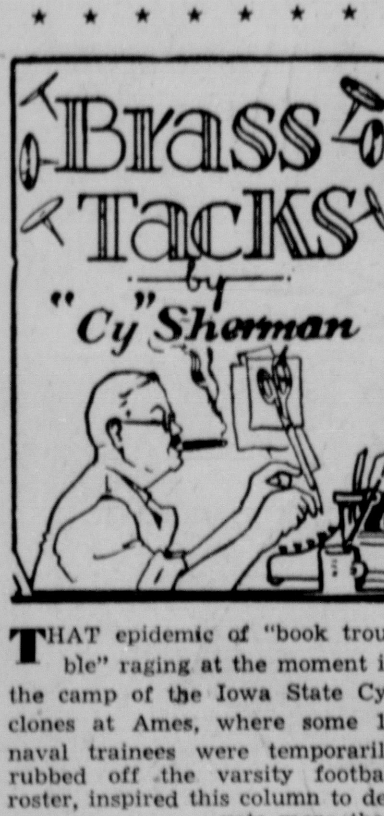

Storm Stops Second Game.

In what the eastern storm left of baseball yesterday, the New York Giants trounced the Philadelphia Phillies and the Brooklyn Dodgers edged out the Boston Braves. Both games were only the first halves of scheduled twin bills, but the nightcaps were washed out.

The Giants' win over the Phillies was by the healthy margin of 12 to 1. Bill Voiselle became a 20-game winner when Ernie Lombardi sparked a sixth-inning, eight-run drive with a four-run homer.

The Dodgers, however, had a close 5 to 4 squeek in winning over the Braves. It was a ninth-inning single, with the bases loaded by Augie Galan, that pulled the Dodgers through.

In the final two games of the day, the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds split a twin bill, the Reds winning the first game, 3 to 2, in 13 innings and the Cubs taking the nightcap, 4 to 2.

THAT epidemic of "book trouble" raging at the moment in the camp of the Iowa State Cyclones at Ames, where some 13 naval trainees were temporarily rubbed off the varsity football roster, inspired this column to devote more than a casual scanning to the official Cyclone roster which arrived recently via the mails.

Trainees Must Know Their Books

Of the 57 candidates on the Iowa State squad—including, of course, the 13 who are under orders to give closer attention to their scholastic standings—no less than 45 bear the naval trainee brand. Only 12 of the 57 total are labelled "civilian."

Query: How much of a showing could Iowa State hope to make in the Big Six conference race if, like Nebraska, it were compelled to depend solely on civilian material, most of it of the 16 and 17-year old freshman classification?

One more intriguing fact pertaining to the Iowa State roster: Of the 45 naval trainees, exactly nine are Nebraska boys, and four of the nine were enrolled at Nebraska U. two years ago, all members of the Cornhusker freshman squad.

* * * *

ON SEVERAL occasions of late we've rubbed elbows with Cornhusker followers who were curious concerning the future of these Nebraska boys in training at the Ames, Ia., seat of learning.

Once Husker, Always Husker, Their Motto

When the war has run its course, will they return to their home state, here to pursue their careers in education, meantime donning Cornhusker football duds, or decide to cast their lot in athletics with the Cyclones?

As to that, it's a leap in the dark, but our guess is that the pull to return to Nebraska will be with them when their days in the services have ended. This particular hunch is based on Coach Ed Weir's experience with his former Cornhusker proteges in track and field.

The call of the services virtually made a clean sweep of the Weir squads that bagged the Big Six track championships of 1941 and '42. Meantime, Ed has kept in touch, via the mails, with all of his boys.

Right down the line to the very last man, says the Nebraska coach, the pledge has been made, definite and final, that when V-day comes, his boys will be coming back to Nebraska to wear Cornhusker scanties. And that's the inspiration for our guess that the ex-Cornhusker footballers in the services now will head for the Nebraska campus at the earliest opportunity.

* * * *

THE press wires tell us that Michigan State college, after a blank year in football, has resumed gridiron activities. Also that Head Coach Charlie Bachman, well known in Lincoln because of his career as a player at Notre Dame and subsequent regime at Kansas State as head coach, has a squad of some 60 candidates at East Lansing bidding for stations in the Spartan lineup.

Spartans Paid Price For Quitting

Although Coach Bachman and his associates at the East Lansing institution probably aren't in the mood to admit it, the suggestion seems to be in order that if Charlie and his pals had it do over again, there would have been no suspension of 1943 football at Michigan State.

It was pleaded at the time of the suspension that the only prospective material for the Spartan squad of 1943 would have borne the freshman brand. As to that, Nebraska was in the same boat and is there again this year. Nevertheless, Nebraska, respecting its traditions in football, carried on and still is carrying on, despite a complete lack of experienced material.

In dropping out last year, Michigan State paid a heavy price. It not only lost caste with the Big Ten, but also lost its place on the Michigan U. schedule. In the quest for a 1944 schedule, the Spartans have lined up games with Wayne, Kansas State, Missouri, Maryland and Kentucky—four games short of the regular slate.

Get Going At Bowl

Northeast Rockets Take On Hastings Hi Tigers Tonight Under Lights At Wesleyan.

The Hastings high Tigers will be seeking their first victory over the Northeast Rockets tonight in the season opener for both aggregations at the Wesleyan bowl. Kickoff time is 8 o'clock.

The Adams county aggregation has bowed to the Rockets in the three previous conference encounters, falling 12-6 in 1941 and failing to score in '42 and '43 in 6-0 and 20-0 losses.

The Rockets' line average of 159 drops just below the 160-mark of the Tigers, but Coach Bun Galloway's backfield quartet balances the scales at the 174 notch, as compared with Hastings' 162.

Northeast's passing attack depends much on Babe Gillespie's tossing arm and the pass-nabbing of Paul Dunbar and Glen Wyman.

Huskers To Clash

Stiff Scrimmage Session On Slate For Saturday In Nebraska Uni. Grid Camp.

Several of the questions which Coach Ad Lewandowski is asking himself about his 1944 University of Nebraska fotoball charges will be answered Saturday when he sends them through a stiff intrasquad session on the varsity field.

Lewandowski has been impressed by the showing of Chick Knight, Lincoln Northeast freshman, who is pressing the veteran Buzz Hollins of Valley for the No. 1 punter spot.

The shaky end situation was cleared yesterday when Bert Gissler, 210-pounder from Osceola, said he would return to practice next Tuesday. Gissler is home helping his father harvest a bumper crop. Lewandowski still has hopes that Bob Schleiger of Omaha, another end, may don his grid togs again.

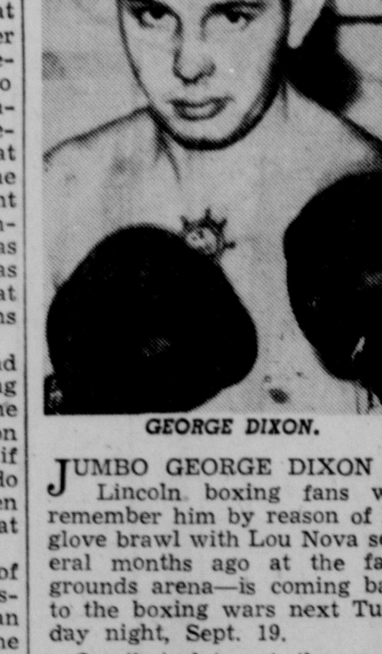

Army Claims Tyson.

Uncle Sam dipped into the Cornhusker reserve forces for Ben Tyson, Aurora center, who has been battling for a third-string berth with Merle Ebers, Seward reserve of last year, and Clive Ostenberg, Scottsbluff frosh.

Thursday additions to the squad were noted when Bill Berquist, Lexington; Ed Legino, Omaha; Ken Stein, Bloomington; Larry Megill, York, and Bob Smallfoot, Dunbar, applied for equipment.

Berquist is a son of the late Joy Berquist, great Nebraska guard of the early 1920s and county judge of Dawson county at the time of his death two years ago.

HERE COMES JUMBO.

GEORGE DIXON.

JUMBO GEORGE DIXON — Lincoln boxing fans will remember him by reason of his glove brawl with Lou Nova several months ago at the fairgrounds arena—is coming back to the boxing wars next Tuesday night, Sept. 19.

On that date, at the arena, Jumbo will square off against John Pesek, the Ravenna Tigerman, in a mixed battle of 10 rounds, Dixon to use padded fists and Pesek to depend on his arts as a wrestler. Pesek can win by pinning his opponent, while Dixon can triumph if able to floor his wrestling foe via a knockout.

Seven amateur bouts, each of three rounds, will precede the main event of Dixon vs. Pesek. Local boxers scheduled to go the prelims include Jake Schneider, Bob Lybarger, Willard Tarpley, Bob Chase, Marland Chandler and Bob Svoboda.

OPENING fall grid practice at the U. of Virginia, Coach Frank Murray told his athletes to report on the field at 5 p. m.... The time arrived and only Murray and his assistants were present. ...After a long wait, he went into the locker room to investigate... "We had so many new boys who never had used heavy equipment," he explained later, "that all the veterans were busy showing them how to wear their pads."

GREATS OF GOLF AT COUNTRY CLUB.

BYRON NELSON.

"JUG" McSPADEN.

GOLF'S greatest war bond winners, Byron Nelson and Harold "Jug" McSpaden, performing in golf's greatest event in capital city circles, are scheduled to display thier club-swinging skill Saturday afternoon on the course of Lincoln's Country club. Nelson will be paired with Erv Rucklos, city amateur champion, in taking on McSpaden and partner, Pro Bud Williamson, in an 18-hole foursome match. The Lincoln exhibition is scheduled to get going at 2:30 p. m.

Nelson and McSpaden are playing at the Omaha Field club today, squaring off against Johnny Revolta and Leonard Dodson.

Saturday's admission price to the Country club grounds has been fixed at $1.20, federal tax included. The Saturday night program at the Country club will feature a complimentary dinner in honor of Pro Bud Williamson, whose showing at the recent All-American Open tourney at Chicago did so much to put Lincoln on the national golf map.

Wings In Battle v. Peru Navy

The 1944 edition of the Lincoln Army Air Field Wings will be unveiled tonight at Peru, Neb., when they meet Peru Navy V-12 under the lights on the Sailors' field.

With a starting line which averages 199 pounds and a backfield which will average 184 pounds, the Wings will outweigh their Navy opponents, but what Peru lacks in weight it may make up in speed and running ability.

Opener for Ingallsmen.

Peru also has the edge in experience this fall. They already have had two games under their belts, while Friday night's tussle will be the opener for Coach Ingalls' team.

The Wings will open their home season Sunday, Sept. 24, against Fort Logan of Denver at the University of Nebraska stadium.

It was announced today that an attempt is being made to bring Marquette university's team, coached by Tom Stidham, former mentor at Oklahoma university, to the Nebraska stadium for a game in October. The Golden Avalanche from Milwaukee is well manned with navy and marine trainees and should prove to be a tough competitor for the Wings.

Injuries Defied By Notre Dame Captain

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Sept. 15—(INS)—Pat Filley, Notre Dame football captain, who underwent operations on both knees, was back in grid togs today. Filley, a guard, took his first workout with the Irish squad this season during yesterday's practice session. Notre Dame, with only three experienced linemen, will depend heavily on Filley to bulwark the forward wall.

Pitcher Discovers Rings Not Stolen

CHICAGO, Sept. 15—(INS)—Paul Derringer, Chicago Cubs' pitching veteran, pulled the "hidden ball trick" on himself, it developed today.

Derringer packed three rings, valued at $2,250, in his bag when he Cubs left St. Louis Monday. Unable to find the rings when he opened his bag in the Stevens hotel in Chicago, Derringer reported the disappearance of the jewelry to police yesterday.

Later, he reported he had found the rings among his tightly packed clean shirts.

Jayhawker Gridders Get Going In Opening Game vs. Washburn at Lawrence.

LAWRENCE, Kans., Sept. 15—(AP)—University of Kansas fires the opening gun of the Big Six 1944 football campaign here tonight, meeting a touted Washburn college crew from Topeka, Kans.

Local sportswriters have told fans this was their opportunity to register a vote for night football by swarming out for a renewal of an intra-state feud which began in 1891.

Elsewhere in the circuit, three injured University of Oklahoma players returned yesterday a few moments before Coach Dewey Luster sent three newly-injured men—Backs Basil Sharp and Bobby Estep and Tackle Thurman Tigart—to the bench. All had bruised knees, none serious.

Manahan Goes to Navy.

Charles Manahan, 180-pound guard from Hastings, Neb., was a casualty as Kansas State took a limited session on signal drill, place-kicking and trying-for-point. Manahan will report to the navy this week.

Ken Keough began to look like Iowa State's backfield glamor boy as the second week of practice was rounded out at Ames. The former Milwaukee State college star is showing power and speed at the right halfback post and his punting is plenty good.

Viewmen, Reserves In Action

Coach Emory Priefert's College View gridmen and the Lincoln high reserves installing their 1944 gridiron campaigns Friday afternoon at the Lincoln high Oval, with the opening kick-off slated for 3:20.

The Viewmen were polishing up on kick-off formation and the running of plays in Thursday afternoon's light workout, with but one of the first eleven out with injuries.

Don Paulsen has been fighting a Charleyhorse and his brother, Lee Paulsen, probably will take over at the right half spot, Coach Priefert said Thursday.

Grid Dope On the Air Saturday

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(AP)—Opening football broadcasts of the season make up the principal matinee fare of all the radio networks on Saturday. Two games will be distributed among four of them, with three doing the same one. Here's the schedule:

Billy Hillenbrand, Lou Saban and Chuck Jacoby, Indiana stars in the All-Star game, are army lieutenants.

BRAIN TWIZZLERS

By. Prof. J. D. Flint

The wayward husband had been paid at his office that day and when he stumbled home that night without a cent in his pockets, his wife had a right to be curious and very peeved. When pressed for an explanation the husband threw together a lot of ideas and his story ran something like this: "I got a certain amount of money at the office today and when we left at the end of the day I took a couple of customers out to dinner. That cost me four and a half dollars. I lost a sixth of the amount I was paid gambling. I loaned one-fifth of it to a guy downtown and then I spent one-fourth of it on a new suit. And then, to top it off I was held up and lost one-third of what I was paid. That's all, it's all gone." The wayward husband thought he was pretty smart but all the complications of the story didn't fool the wife. She knew how much he had gotten at the office. What was it?

593 Arrests Made By Safety Patrol Month Of August

The Nebraska safety patrol reports that 2,305 motorists made "errors" while playing the game of "driving" on Nebraska's highways during August. 593 of these errors, which consisted of 134 for speeding, 53 for reckless driving, 39 for drunken driving, 53 for stop sign violations, and 314 miscellaneous violations, resulted in arrests.

423 motorists were given written warnings for minor infractions which contribute to accidents. Driving with defective and therefore dangerous equipment resulted in 1,289 motorists getting violation or "must repair" cards. Again one headlight and no tail light topped the equipment violations.

The patrol recovered 22 stolen cars which nearly doubled July's 12 recoveries.

Besides calling the "errors," the patrol assisted 888 stalled motorists to reach their destination. 531 dangerous obstructions, which often times lead to accidents, were removed from the highways during August. To complete the patrol's August activities, 23 safety talks were made before civic groups.

Stocks Go To Rallying Side

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(AP)—

Stocks generally shifted to the rallying side in today's market and the only cloud on the brighter picture was the lack of real steam on the forward move.

Steels, motors and rubbers were in front of the forenoon swing. Aircrafts then enjoyed a bulge, apparently stimulated by suggestions these had been oversold in view of the likelihood new commercial orders would cushion cancellation of government business. Rails joined the trek after midday. Quotations tapered for a while but turned upward again in the final hour on a little more volume. Gains of fractions to 2 or more points predominated near the close. Transfers were around 700,000 shares.

Douglas Aircraft hit a peak for 1944 but still was about 10 points under its top of last year. Favored were United Aircraft, Boeing, American Airlines, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Graham-Paige, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Santa Fe, Great Northern, American Can, Deere, American Telephone, Standard Oil (NJ) Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward.

Reorganization railbonds regained some popularity.

Stocks Gain Selectively

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(AP)—

Steels motors and rubbers led the stock market on a selective comeback today although demand was light.

Some bids were forthcoming on the belief many postwar industrial ranks still were well populated, however, and, with a weekend approaching, numerous customers inclinded to maintain a liquid position.

The ticker tape moped from the start but turnover was aided by large blocks of low-prices shares. Gains of fractions to a point or so were in the majority near midday.

Bonds were steady and commodities a shade uneven.

Safe Dates For Planting Wheat Are Announced

Fly-safe dates for planting of winter wheat in Nebraska were announced Thursday by the entomology department at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture. The dates are about six weeks earlier than usual due to favorable weather for hessian fly development.

At the same time under existing conditions it is even more important than usual to destroy volunteer wheat, Dr. H. Douglas Tate, chairman of the entomology department, said. There is an abundance of volunteer wheat now growing in many places. The adult flies have emerged and laid eggs on this wheat.

Volunteer wheat, if allowed to stand, may become heavily infested this fall and carry many flies through the winter to infest the crop next spring. Although a partial second brood of flies often emerges from the volunteer wheat or early seeded wheat and infest wheat that was planted in accordance with the fly-safe date in the fall. Such an occurence may partly, if not almost entirely, eliminate the value obtained by planting in accordance with fly-safe dates.

Co-Operation Essential.

"Community co-operation is essential, in effective control of the hessian fly," said Dr. Tate. "Volunteer wheat should be destroyed if possible in the entire neighborhood. No wheat should be sown before the fly-safe date. A few scattered fields seeded early may serve as a source of infestation for the entire community."

The fly-safe planting dates county by county:

September 17-18—Platte.
September 18—Burt.
September 18-19—Colfax, Dodge.
September 19—Polk.
September 19-20—Butler, Washington, Adams, Hamilton.
September 20—Douglas.
September 20-21 — Clay, Saunders, Seward, Webster, York.
September 21—Sarpy.
September 21-22 — Cass, Fillmore, Lancaster, Nuckolls, Saline.
September 22-23—Otoe, Thayer.
September 23-24 — Gage, Jefferson, Johnson, Nemaha.
September 24-25—Pawnee, Richardson.

In counties west of Nuckolls and south of the Platte river, infestations of importance are present in some localities. Definite fly-safe dates are not recommended for these counties but it is regarded as highly advisable to destroy volunteer wheat and delay planting until about an average date, other factors permitting.
